Second Nuclear Shot Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today fired the second shot of its planned series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Like the first on Wednesday, it was a detonation of a device dropped from an airplane in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific.

An announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission said the shot was touched off about 11 a.m. EST, and the detonation was in the intermediate-yield range.

This description is used for a shot with a force greater than the explosive force of 20,000 tons of TNT but less than that of 1,000,000 tons of TNT. No other details were given.

New Wave Of Strikes In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — A new wave of strikes broke out in various parts of Algeria today as business leaders deplored the drastic drop in commerce caused by terrorism and insecurity.

The post offices, telephone and telegraph services, banks, gasoline service stations and the University of Algiers were affected.

The strikers joined an estimated 8,000 industrial workers in the Oran area who went on a strike of indefinite length Wednesday.

The president of the Algerian Commercial Club, Adrien Cholet, said imports from France dropped 20 per cent during the first three months of 1962, and business has fallen as much as 80 per cent in some sectors.

B.C. Judge Named

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Starr announced today the appointment of Justice F. Craig Munroe, of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, as chairman of a conciliation board in a contract dispute between Canada's railways and their 110,000 non-operating employees.

BUTTER PRICE DROPS TUESDAY

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Commencing Tuesday the retail price of butter will drop by 12 cents a pound and the price of cheese will rise by one-half a cent a pound.

The new prices go into operation May 1 under the revamped dairy price support program announced earlier this year by the federal government.

It is estimated the new program will cost more than $30,000,000 in its first year of operation.

It is hoped it will increase consumption across Canada and thereby reduce the government's mounting surplus of butter now at around 170,000,000 pounds, by making prices to the housewife more competitive with margarine.

The consumer subsidy — which the taxpayers will pay through the federal treasury — will bring the retail price of butter down from around 70 cents to between 56 and 59 cents a pound depending upon the area. This price compares with a margarine price of between 30 and 35 cents a pound.

Two Men Survive Helicopter Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters) — Eight bodies were recovered from the wreckage of a United States Army helicopter, found today after being missing since Wednesday.

Another helicopter discovered the wreckage 37 miles southwest of Bethel and about 500 miles west of here. There were two survivors from the craft which was taking U.S. national guard advisers on a routine visit to national guard detachments in the Bethel area.

The helicopter was reported down Wednesday but bad weather delayed the search. The survivors were identified as Sgt. John Fannin of Monroe, Mich., and M. Sgt. James Acie of Bethel.

They were found Thursday

near the crash scene by an Eskimo who took them 14 miles to an abandoned oil drilling site and then drove his four-door team to a village where the army was notified by radio.

The two men were later flown out by light plane and are now in Bethel hospital and reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Two major demands.

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy thunderstorms and several tornadoes raked wide areas of the plains states Thursday.

Winds of tornado force battered Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Tex. Thursday night, damaging several buildings and injuring 11 persons.

Three tornadoes bounced over the Stamford - Arison area north of Abilene, Tex., causing some property damage. Others were sighted later in safety.

CALGARY (CP) — Anglo American Exploration Limited plans to sell all its marketing outlets and a refinery at Bartell, Alta., to British American Oil Company Limited for $7,562,896.

MAIDS GO ON STRIKE

Vicar's Ghost Ties Laces

DEDDINGTON, England (Reuters) — The maids have gone on strike at the vicarage in this Oxfordshire hamlet because they say the place is haunted.

The vicar, Rev. Maurice Frost, died at 73 last Christmas Day.

His old servants have been refusing lately to enter the house, for fear of his ghost.

The vicar's cousin, Campbell Jarrett, who came here from Italy to settle his estate, said noises have been heard in the study and coughs in the drawing room.

Once a "mysterious hand" drew him back into the drawing room, he said.

One of the maids, Mrs. Betty Spencer, said she saw the vicar's ghost sitting on his bed, tying his shoe laces.

Midwestern States Raked by Tornadoes

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy thunderstorms and several tornadoes raked wide areas of the plains states Thursday.

High winds destroyed five small planes and five hangars near Sayre, in western Oklahoma. Strong winds kicked up dust and sand storms in New Mexico.

A thunderstorm drenched Quail, Tex., with 2½ inches of rain in 30 minutes. The downpour collapsed part of the roof of the high school minutes after 50 students were ushered to but apparently didn't touch ground.

Winds of tornado force battered Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Tex. Thursday night, damaging several buildings and injuring 11 persons.

Freedom Withheld

PARIS (Reuters) — Prime Minister Georges Pompidou announced today temporary suspension of the release of Algerian insurgent prisoners under the French-Algerian cease-fire agreements.

I believe my cousin's ghost has been returning to the vicarage, to wind up his antique clocks and look at his favorite books," said Jarrett.

Once a "mysterious hand" drew him back into the drawing room, he said.

Rioting Japanese Beaten Back

TOKYO (AP) — Screaming Japanese students, egged on by an American, tried to storm the U.S. Embassy today in protesting United States nuclear testing. About 100 got as far as the gates before police beat them back in kicking, shoving brawls.

Working themselves into a frenzy, about 2,000 Japanese students made repeated charges from two directions in the third day of demonstrations.

About 300 policemen — holding back their billy clubs and using their hands — roughed up the mobs in the streets leading to the embassy compound's high walls.

When the police cordon held, many of the students flopped on the sidewalks, tying up the heavy afternoon traffic. The police finally pulled them up and shoved them down the street.

One of the speechmakers exhorting the students earlier was Ted Reynolds, son of Dr. Earle Reynolds, an American pacifist who teaches in Hiroshima.

THEY ARE STUPID

"I'm against nuclear tests," young Reynolds said. "They are stupid."

Several embassy officers spent most of the day receiving protests from small groups of peaceful demonstrators. One group allowed to enter consisted of eight citizens of Hiroshima, target of the first 1945 U.S. atomic bombing.

Japanese socialists sent up a small plane to drop thousands of leaflets reading: "We cannot remain still any more. Stop the nuclear tests immediately."

In London Thursday night 2,000 anti-bomb demonstrators marched in Grosvenor Square in front of the U.S. Embassy. Police moved in and arrested 192 when the marchers spilled into the street, sat down to block traffic and refused to move.

Such a walkout would cripple ports all over Britain, cutting off vital food imports and halting the shipment of exports on which the country's economy depends.

It was the first official national dock strike notice to the employers since 1926, although there have been many partial work stoppages since then.

The four dock unions involved want a substantial but unspecified increase on wages which vary according to working conditions and the type of cargo handled but in general range upward from £15 a week.

They also want the working week reduced from 44 to 40.

The employers have offered to negotiate on fringe benefits, but have insisted that they cannot afford to give way on the two major demands.

$10 MILLION PROSPECT THWARTED BY DEATH

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Congress said he could do it. But pioneer aviator and inventor George C. Barnhart never got the chance to sue the U.S. government for the $10,000,000 he said it owed him.

Two months ago a special bill was passed by Congress and signed by President Kennedy, enabling Barnhart to file a suit he said would square the debt the government owed him.

But yesterday Barnhart, 86, collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack — before he had been able to file the suit.

The dispute was over a series of patents Barnhart turned over to the Army Air Corps in 1942 for the duration of the Second World War. One was for the split-edge wing flap, a landing brake used by most big planes from the late '30s to the jet age.

Barnhart never collected royalties on his inventions, patents for them being withheld while the war was in progress.

Storm Cuts Power, Hits Boats

Fierce winds generated by an all-time record low barometer disrupted light, power and phone service in the Greater Victoria area today, keeping police and repairmen hopping, knocking over trees, blowing in windows and halting some marine traffic.

Gusts hit as high as 76 miles per hour shortly after 10 a.m., and the Gonzales Heights weather office reported the average forenoon velocity as 40 to 50 miles per hour.

The winds were generated by low pressure area which

Investment dealers in Victoria and Vancouver today were in general agreement that Premier Bennett's $25 million Hydro and Power Authority bond sale is a flop.

There was some measure of disagreement on the reason for the failure of the public to subscribe to the issue.

Some dealers maintained the price was too high. Others declared that the price was right

"under normal circumstances" but that unfavorable publicity received as a result of the B.C. Electric takeover had made investors wary of the issue.

Japanese socialists sent up a small plane to drop thousands of leaflets reading: "We cannot remain still any more. Stop the nuclear tests immediately."

Many dealers were highly critical of the premier's action in attempting to set his own market price for the bonds rather than putting the issue out to tender.

The bonds came on the market this week priced at $99.50 per $100 face value. With a coupon of 5½ per cent, the bonds would yield an investor 5.29 per cent interest if held for the full 20-year term.

Many dealers were highly critical of the premier's action in attempting to set his own market price for the bonds rather than putting the issue out to tender.

Most dealers were reporting little interest from investors. This in turn led many dealers to refuse all but a small part of the allotment offered them by the government.

The allotments were on a "take and pay" basis which meant that the dealers would be left holding any bonds which they could not sell.

Police said Wayne Arnold McLeod, 22, was found dead in a bathroom at the hotel near the Mexican-United States border.

He had been stabbed six times.

People and Things

(Times News Services)

DALLAS—A Texas-type Romeo bragged so much about the four-carat diamond ring he gave his girl friend police decided to look into it.

He is singing a different tune today.

A tipster told police the man said he bought the ring from a burglar. Detectives Bill Cantrell and C. T. Bourne located the man at a cafe where his girl friend works as a waitress. They called him outside and left her inside admiring the marble-sized ring on her finger.

"She doesn't know it, but it's just a hunk of glass," the Romeo hastily explained.

Cantrell said he and Burnley decided not to release the man's name. He's in enough trouble already, they said.

He had to explain his brush with police to his girl friend and confess that he actually paid only $2.50, plus tax, for the ring.

NEW CARLISLE, Ind. — New Carlisle High School isn't going to keep its new pole vault runway, which turned out to be a displaced road, and the two boys who planned it aren't on the track team any more.

Sheriff William Locks' said two 15-year-old boys admitted ripping part of the surface from a newly blacktopped county road near here and hauling it to the school in the trunk of their car.

County Commissioner John Hanley said there would be no criminal charges—and the school could keep the blacktop, but Principal Harry Stoneburner ordered the boys to remove it and dropped them from the squad.

MIAMI, Fla. — Jack Crosby Jr., 11, is happy over winning $192,000 in a lawsuit, but he wasn't told immediately that he must lose his right arm.

A six-man jury made the award Wednesday after the Charleston Heights, S.C., boy's lawyer said a cast was applied too tightly to Jack's arm and caused a withering which now requires amputation.

The boy was not in court when the jury viewed an artificial arm of a type the lawyer said he eventually would wear.

The suit was against Dr. George H. W. Wessel of Hialeah, Fla., who set the lad's broken arm in 1959. Wessel said he told Jack's family to bring him back for a check but the family moved the next day to Charleston.

QUINCY, Ill. — After painting their home lavender, the Paul Butlers put up a sign in the yard reading, "We don't like the color of your house either."

DES MOINES, Iowa — Mrs. Kathleen Burke Bullington lost her race with a parking meter, but Municipal Judge Ray Harrison waived the fine when he learned of her "handicap."

Mrs. Bullington said her block-long dash to beat the red flag on the meter was slowed by the shopping bundles she was carrying, the baby stroller she was pushing and the four-year-old daughter she was leading.

Own Hydro Supply For Prince George

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prince George, which receives power now from a 21,000-kilowatt diesel plant, will have its own hydro supply late in 1963, it was announced today.

B.C. Hydro and Power Authority said the power, from the company's Bridge River hydro system, 255 miles south of the interior city, would supply 130,000 kilowatts—adequate for new industry.

In making the announcement, B.C. Hydro said the late 1963 power would be available "about five years before energy begins to flow from the huge Peace River project."

Work on the line from Bridge River will begin this month. The line, consisting of three cables mounted on H-shaped wooden structures, will be erected along part of the route of a new high-voltage transmission system that will bring power from the Peace River

'NO POPERY' SCOTS SHOUT AT CLERGY

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Demonstrators shouted "no popery" Thursday as senior Church of Scotland and Scottish Episcopalian leaders met Scottish Roman Catholic representatives to help improve relations between the churches.

Police arrested two of the demonstrators outside the convention where the meeting took place.

A Catholic spokesman, Dom Columban Mulcahy, said later the meeting's objective was not "Romeward," but "Christianward."

A Presbyterian leader, Rev. John Kent, moderator of Glasgow Presbytery, said "we may not have come any closer to one another in our beliefs as a result of the meeting, but we shall certainly have come together in friendship."

City Yards Promised Destroyer Contracts

Victoria shipyards will get federal government contracts to build two new destroyer escorts. Conservative candidate A. deB. McPhillips pledged Thursday night.

Mr. McPhillips said he had been assured by Defence Production Minister Raymond O'Hurley that three of eight new destroyer contracts would be awarded to Pacific shipyards—which means we'll have two in Victoria.

Previously, he said he had only expected one for Victoria. The vessels will cost between $20,000,000 and $40,000,000 each, said Mr. McPhillips.

He made the statement in his acceptance speech as Victoria federal candidate at a nominating convention.

Mr. McPhillips said he was largely instrumental in getting the treasury board to restrict bidding on two new weather ships to the west coast, and Victoria yards would get one of these $7,000,000 contracts, too.

He recited his accomplishments on behalf of the city in answer to criticism from Liberal candidate Foster Isherwood that he made hardly any speeches and did very little for Victoria while in Ottawa.

Mr. McPhillips said it could be a waste of time for private members to speak in the House of Commons.

ZORIN A RED SQUARE? U.K. ENVOY GETS LAUGH

GENEVA (CP) — British delegate Joseph Godber brought a bit of sunshine to the clouded 17-nation disarmament conference here today.

Stressing the need for finer definition of terms during a discussion on war propaganda, Godber cited the Russian-made epithet "capitalist circles."

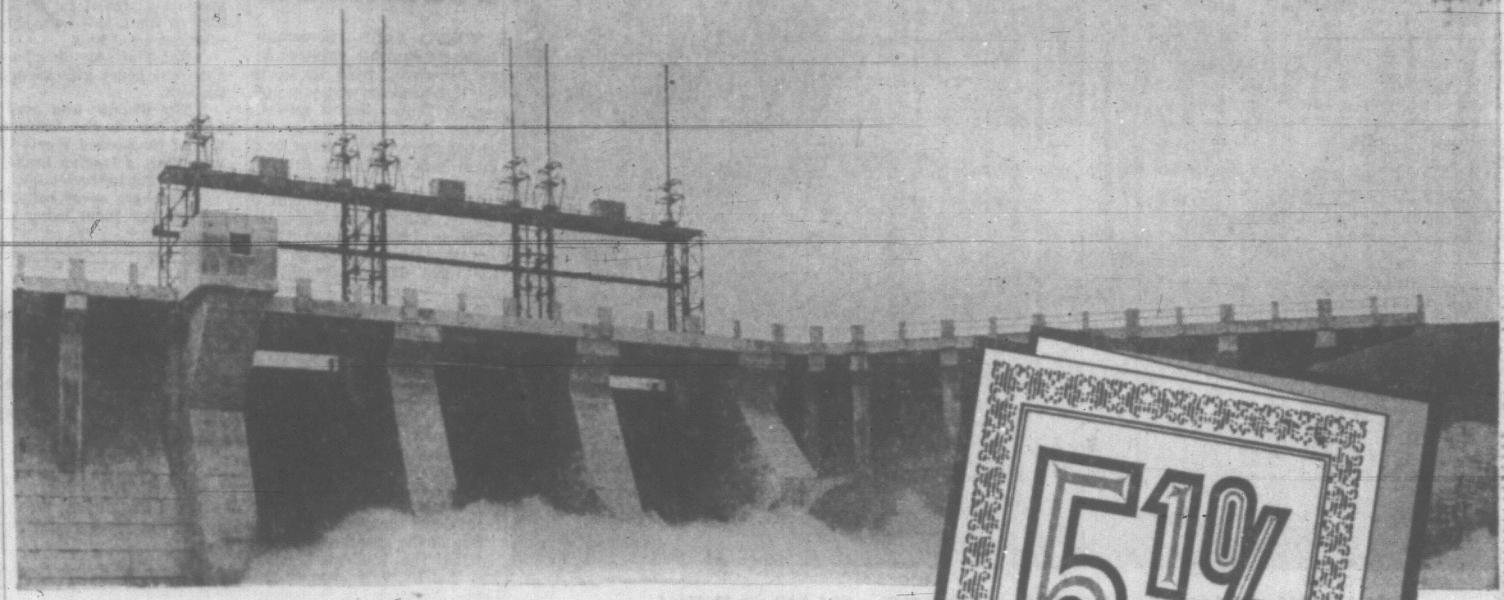

The conference erupted in laughter when Godber said: "I don't mind being called a capitalist circle. But I hope I should never be tempted to call Mr. Zorin a Red square."

Scout's Proud Moment Witnessed by 850

REPLY TO ADDRESS by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes Thursday at Government House was given by 17-year-old Maureen Farr, 6020 Collingwood, Vancouver. The first year Arts and Science student at University of B.C. thanked Mr. Pearkes in a style a politician might have envied. "We have many fine girls," said a Guide leader, "and she is one of the best." Miss Farr was selected by Scout and Guide leaders to represent the 356 present.

Thieves Loot Car

A car belonging to John Lorenzen, 8355 West Saanich Road, was broken into while parked outside a city theatre between 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Wednesday, and the following appliances stolen:

A new vacuum cleaner, valued at $229; a rebuilt vacuum cleaner, valued at $129; a hair dryer, valued at $19, and some cleaner filters, worth $2.50.

A crowd of more than 850, consisting mostly of parents, jammed the main ballroom at Government House Thursday afternoon to see 312 Scouts receive Queen's Scout certificates and 53 Girl Guides their Gold Cord certificates.

Anyone with the camera film concession there would have been a happy man as flash bulbs winked steadily throughout the crowd as a son or daughter went up to the dais to shake Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes' left hand in true scouting tradition, and receive a certificate.

The boys and girls, from centres throughout B.C., all had previously received their promotions in ceremonies at their home units, but official accreditation is given annually at this ceremony.

General Pearkes told the youngsters they were actually receiving their awards from the Queen "although, as you can appreciate, she cannot be here," so he, as her representative, was standing in.

He relieved the tension and set the mood for the day by remarking that, before the ceremony, he and an aide, Lt. Cdr. Hugh Plante had bet on the number of Georges and Hughs there would be among the Scouts.

"Well there wasn't one of either," he said, "not one."

And then with a broad smile he glanced from Scouts to Guides and said, "I will have to rely on you in due course to see that that is rectified."

The Scouts and Guides were also addressed by provincial commissioners Brigadier W.G. H. Roaf and Mrs. Mary E.J. Holmes.

Brig. Roaf led them in reaffirming the Scout Promise as both participants and audience stood to attention.

The 312 Scouts came from 64 regions throughout B.C. Mainland boys and girls crossed from Vancouver Wednesday aboard the destroyer-escorts Saguenay and Fraser. Included in the group were

Golf Course Plan Over Big Hurdle

City council Thursday agreed to lease about 70 acres of Beaver Lake watershed for $1 a year, despite one alderman's objections, the rental should be at least $17,500.

The land would be used by Saanich municipality to develop a nine-hole public golf course at a cost of up to $150,000.

The council's action authorized city officials to negotiate further with Saanich in preparing a formal agreement covering a 30-year period.

You Gotta Have Luck

SOME PEOPLE are born lucky, some achieve luck and some have luck thrust upon them. I'm all three.

At no time in my life have I run my rowboat onto an iceberg and sunk. Neither have I ever been struck by lightning—not yet, anyhow. With that history, how can I be anything but an optimist?

But good fortune, in my case, has not stopped with these demonstrations of her affection for me. She smiles also on my humbler affairs.

Look what happened a few years ago. The people who write automobile insurance were disturbed by the claims made against them in British Columbia. Too many drivers were running into too many others, or hitting things like trees and bridge abutments. There were so many accidents an insurance company couldn't make a respectable living out of writing automobile insurance. The pay-out was too much for the intake. So the companies decided they'd have to raise the rates. That meant the drivers would have to pay more—and a lot of drivers were unhappy.

While murmurs of distress rose from the automobile-owning public, I received a letter saying that since I had escaped accidents, I'd be given a reduction. When my next premium fell due, it was only $5 or $10 above the previous one.

I have never been a mathematical wizard, but in a foggy sort of way an increase of $5 or $10 in my premium seemed to me to be a peculiar way of enjoying a reduction. I wrote what I considered an appropriate piece about it and was rewarded by an interview with a distinguished public relations personality who was handling the automobile insurance companies' account.

He invited me to visit him at the hotel and poured rye that costs a dollar more a bottle than I usually pay. And he gave me an explanation in the friendliest way possible.

As he put it, the companies had to increase their rates for reasons I understood. But since it would be unfair to saddle me with the costs of accidents caused by those who had accidents, I wouldn't be charged nearly as much as they would.

Their premiums, he said, were going up $20 and more. Not mine though. I was to enjoy the accident-free reduction. My premium was going up only $5 or $10. He poured several more three-ouncers, premium stuff too, told a couple of good stories and led the conversation into discussion of

I found him a very nice young man, very solicitous for my welfare and happiness, deeply considerate and a whiz at insurance figures. When it came time for me to leave, we looked all over the place for my hat, until we remembered I never wear one. He accompanied me to the door, shook my hand and left me beaming. Nice fellow. My reduction only cost $5 or $10 more. How lucky could I get?

Now a somewhat similar stroke of good fortune has come my way through Mr. Bennett's "very substantial" reductions in light rates.

Several seasons ago we put electricity into the shack at Shawnigan. We use the juice mainly in the summer when somebody's in continuous residence there for several weeks at a time. When the vacation time is over, we could cut off the service, but it would cost something to have it put on again, and anyhow, we go up weekends throughout the year. It's pretty handy to be able to flick a switch and get light in the winter.

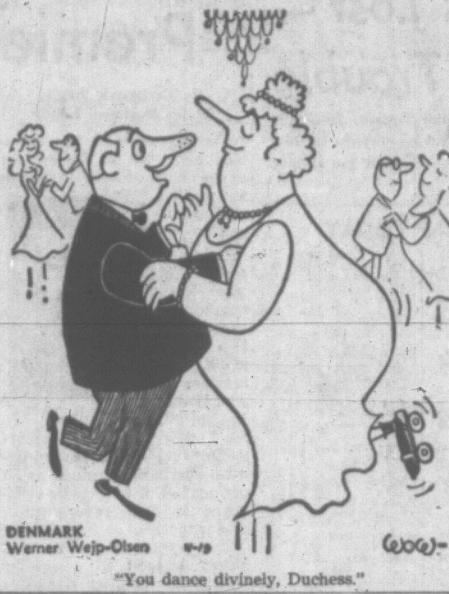

Still, these occasional weekend visits never pushed the meter above the minimum monthly charge, which was 79 cents. I've always considered that reasonable in the extreme. It seemed hardly necessary, to me, for Mr. Bennett to provide "very substantial" reductions when the private company was letting me off so lightly.

Still, if he wanted to cut the rate, I wouldn't protest.

Now I've received my first bill since the "very substantial" reduction was made in rates. It is for 92 cents. My "very substantial" reduction is only minus 13 cents. That's not much in money, but it's the principle that counts.

As I reckon things—and I once got 100 in geometry though that was a fluke—if I keep receiving the advantages of these reductions, I'll be able to retire 10 years ago.

WIDE COVER HEALTH PLAN RECOMMENDED

TORONTO (CP) — A national health plan covering almost all phases of sickness will be recommended by the Toronto city welfare department to the Royal Commission on Health Services which starts sittings here May 7.

At a meeting of the welfare committee Thursday, the department discussed a brief that will urge that both preventive and curative medical treatment and services be included in the plan, together with required drugs, prosthetic appliances, dental care, glasses, and other items.

New Weapon 'Jungle Gym' Hard on Ears of Red Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The U.S. Air Force was reported to day to have developed a secret anti-guerrilla program for South Viet Nam under the code name of Jungle Gym.

Sources said one part of the plan is to use transport planes to concussion-bomb the Communist-infested South Vietnamese jungle.

The aim would be to burst the eardrums of Communist guerrillas, crippling them for further combat and demoralizing those who were not injured. Some probably would be killed by fragments, but that would not be the main purpose.

It was not known whether these missions would be flown by U.S. pilots alone, or accompanied by South Vietnamese flyers.

Until now, the stated mission on the USAF in South Viet Nam has been to instruct native pilots in the use of U.S.-supplied planes and other equipment. Sometimes this has carried U.S. pilots into combat.

U.S. planes have flown trooper-carrying and leaflet-dropping missions and U.S. planes have sprayed chemicals on jungle trees in an unsuccessful experiment aimed at stripping away the leaves that give the Communist guerrillas cover.

Americans are under instructions not to fire unless fired upon," McNamara said at the time.

There have been reports that the USAF has been conducting special anti-guerrilla experimentation and training at a small, little-used field near Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

Some members of the army's special forces, experts in anti-guerrilla warfare, are said to have spent time there.

LONDON LETTER

William the Conqueror in Movies

LONDON — Don Garrard, Canadian bass singer, is certainly doing well for himself over here.

He had won Canadian TV's top award for classical singing in 1956 before coming to London to be taken up by the Sadler's Wells Opera Company.

Now the BBC has given him a radio series of his own. He has just started the first of 13 programs, backed by one of Britain's leading orchestras.

Another import, which they are a little self-conscious about here . . . Sherwood Forest, where Robin Hood and his Merry Men frolicked around among the mighty oaks, is being replanted — with American oak trees.

Says the forestry commissioner: "I'm afraid they stand up much better to the poor sandy soil than our own."

After a successful seven-month run at a London cinema, the nudist film Some Like It Cool has moved out into the provinces. But

HOME GARDEN

Start Now on Next Year's Daffs

Many of the early varieties of daffodils have finished blooming for this spring, and the care they require to enable them to flower next year should now begin.

The blossom heads should first be removed. Pulling them off sharply together with the thickened seed pod is the quickest way of dealing with a quantity. The long flower stems may be left to aid in making food for the bulbs.

Daffodils, and all the narcissi, build their bulbs and lay down the flower parts in those of flowering size during the next few weeks.

It seems reasonable to feed the bulbs, and to see that the food is made available to them by supplying a thorough watering if the soil seems at all dry.

A complete, or balanced fertilizer, either one which is especially prepared for bulbs, or the more general one, 6-8-6, can be scattered around and between the bulbs now. The quantity can be roughly gauged from the proportion of one teaspoonful to a bulb, or a tablespoonful around a group of five bulbs.

It is wasteful to throw handfuls around, for the bulb roots can only take up the amount which is dissolved in the soil moisture and carried to the root area.

The leaves should not be damaged in any way until they are limp and yellow, for they play an important part in the building of bulbs.

Should it be absolutely necessary to move the bulbs before the leaves yellow (or ripen), dig them as you would any other growing plant with their roots intact in a ball of soil, replant them carefully in good soil, and water well.

Hyacinths and tulips are two other groups of spring flowering bulbs which require the same after-blooming care as the daffs.

New Tests 'Forced' Say Reds

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet press today appeared to be laying the groundwork for a possible resumption of Russian nuclear weapons tests in answer to the U.S. series in the world.

Political commentator Viktor Mayevsky of the Communist party newspaper Pravda first attacked the U.S. Test series and then added:

"If the Soviet Union is compelled to retaliate to the provocative acts of the Western powers, this is dictated uniquely by the aim of strengthening the security of the Soviet people and of strengthening peace in the world."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said in a Moscow speech March 16 it was obvious that if the U.S. carried out atmospheric tests when already staging underground ones, the Soviet government would be forced to hold nuclear tests in the interests of Soviet security.

Three days ago Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko reiterated that any new Western nuclear weapons tests would provoke Russian tests of "new weapons."

COMPlicates ISSUE

Mayevsky's Pravda article, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, also asserted it was clear that the U.S. decision on tests "can complicate the international situation, prevent the success of the Geneva disarmament talks and darken the hopes of the peoples for the solution of a most important problem of our time—the question of universal and complete disarmament, the question of interests of peace and security of mankind."

The article said that "the responsibility for the possible consequences of the ill-judged acts of the American government is falling entirely on the shoulders of that government and of its partners."

However, from Paris came the comment that "the resumption of nuclear tests at a time when negotiations on Berlin are about to begin is not an announcement of a new phase of tension."

Commentator Raymond Aron, writing in Le Figaro, a conservative newspaper, added the U.S. series "will provoke new Soviet tests, but everything leads one to believe Moscow and Washington have tacitly agreed on the continuance of a qualitative armaments race, although each of the great powers want to place the responsibility on the other."

Aron added that "the maintenance of the equilibrium of terror, to the same degree as the maintenance of the equilibrium of communications, is an imperative of the cold war".

Molester Sentenced On May 3

Stuart Owen Duffey, 45, of Belmont, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to indecently assaulting a 10-year-old girl in his car Jan. 19.

Magistrate William Ostler refused an application by lawyer T. J. Halbert that the evidence be heard in closed court.

Detective Robin Stewart said Duffey, the father of four children, approached the girl as she was on her way home from school, asked her to get into his car, drove to a secluded spot off the Patricia Bay Highway and assaulted her. He then returned the girl to her home, Det. Stewart said.

Duffey was remanded to May 3 for probation report and sentence. He pleaded guilty to a similar charge in city police court Thursday morning.

$100 A MONTH FOR STRIKERS

VANCOUVER (CP) — A unique strike benefit plan for 100,000 workers is being considered by British Columbia labor.

The plan would pay strikers a maximum of $100 a month with funds assessed from unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The Organized Workers' Mutual Aid Fund was first proposed at the federation convention here in October by the Oil Workers' Union, and the federation now is seeking an expression of opinion from the unions.

Victoria Army Officers Posted From B.C. Area

Two Victoria men and a brother officer from B.C. Area army headquarters in Vancouver are involved in transfers announced today by the defence department.

Major John Reeves, of Victoria, is posted to headquarters in Ottawa with the directorate of military training. He was formerly co-ordinator of B.C. Area instruction staff.

Capt. Norman Burch, general staff officer (training) at area headquarters, is promoted major and will be transferred to Calgary early next month to serve with Lord Strathcona's Horse. He is a native of St. Lambert.

Major D. L. "Don" Hannah, Victoria, also is posted to Calgary as military advisor to 22 Militia Group. He is at present commander of 4 Transport Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Winnipeg.

Charter Boat

Fishing boat operator G. F. Harley, 620 Seaforth, Thursday asked city council permission to solicit tourist business this summer at the civic floats in the Inner Harbor. He indicated his boat would be for hire for hourly, daily or charter trips.

Lawyer Foster Isherwood is the Victoria Liberal candidate. When Mr. Gage nominated Mr. Gelling, he asked for a ruling from Miss Wootton as to his eligibility.

Mr. Monteith protested.

"Mr. Gelling is not a delegate... I challenge the nomination."

INELIGIBLE?

"I must rule he's ineligible," said Miss Wootton.

"I accept the ruling. May I say a few words?" asked Mr. Gage.

"No other addresses may be heard," protested Mr. Monteith.

Mr. Gage said he would withdraw the nomination if he could explain why.

He said Mr. Gelling had not been aware nominations were closed in advance, and had made no effort to "pack" the meeting. But nominations had been closed March 27 and the nomination meeting not announced until April 9.

WALKED OUT

Mr. Gelling and his wife walked out of the meeting, in Britannia Branch Legion Hall.

Then the other 64 Tories present unanimously endorsed Mr. McPhillips.

Reason they wouldn't allow Mr. Gelling to stand was that he had not been a party member 30 days before the convention. Mr. Gelling joined on April 6, 20 days before the nomination.

Mr. Gelling said afterwards he will run as an Independent Conservative candidate if he can find enough support before June 4, official closing date for nominations across Canada in the June 18 election.

OUT OF ORDER

He sat quietly through the early part of the meeting until chairman Anna Wootton ruled Mr. Gage out of order.

"I didn't want to make a spectacle of myself," he said after. "I only went to give them the opportunity to do what was right."

"I feel very strongly about it. I think the whole thing was wrong."

Mr. Gelling couldn't qualify for the 30-day pre-nomination ruling because date of the convention wasn't announced until April 9.

STEPS DOWN

The convention started with Victoria Tory association president P. J. Sinnott stepping down from the chair.

There will be no suggestion that the executive is identified in any way with any candidate," he said.

Then he nominated Mr. McPhillips.

Another local Tory said later that W. Berkeley Monteith, chairman of the nominating committee, whose strong protests brought the ruling Mr. Gage was out of order, had nominated Mr. McPhillips in 1957 and 1958.

NO COMPARISON

Mr. Sinnott in his nomination speech, said: "There is no comparison between Mr. McPhillips as a gentleman, as a lawyer, as a legislator when you compare him with the Liberal candidate."

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK — There are small recollections a sports writer considers his personal belongings. I can't tell you what year it was or recall the score. But a halfback stepped out of bounds to duck a tackle, and lost a football game for the Giants. The guy attempted to excuse his act by limping. I asked Steve Owens, who was then the Giant coach, if the player had injured himself.

"He sprained one of his teeth," Owens said, disgustedly.

* * *

The Yankees had won a championship in the fall but they couldn't get moving during the first weeks of the next season.

"You going to change your lineup?" a reporter asked Joe McCarthy who managed them.

"No," McCarthy replied, "I'm going to play the team that won the championship. You know a better one?"

* * *

They were worrying what fear would do to Jimmy Braddock when he fought Joe Louis. But he made his fight the only way he knew how with the casual valor of the prize fighter who understands what's expected of him. I remember what Braddock said, coming down the steps of the ring, after he boxed his final round of training.

"It's all over but the clam, bake," he said.

I don't know why but I can hear him saying that every time his name is mentioned.

* * *

In the dressing room after Rocky Marciano knocked out Louis, people were embarrassed. They didn't know what to say him.

"Sorry you got knocked out," a fight reporter said.

"It's all right," Louis said. "I knocked out a lot of guys, too."

In his last season, Joe DiMaggio was hitting a lot of balls to right field during batting practice.

"I'm pulling them to left," Joe said, "but they're going to right. Do you think the old boy's had it?"

He was trying to kid himself, but he didn't make it. I could tell how worried he was.

* * *

You sometimes forget what kids they really are. I rode with the Cardinals when they played the Red Sox in the world series of '46. Their catcher, Joe Garagiola, was talking about what it meant to him.

"That Ted Williams," he said. "What a regular guy he is. The first time he came up to bat he said hello to me, just like he knew me. What a kick that was. I felt like a big shot."

* * *

I asked Tony Zale why he was a fighter.

"The fellow who has it tough," Zale said, "don't want to go back to it."

"What don't you want to go back to?"

"The steel mills," Zale said.

"Is it tougher than fighting?"

"Did you ever snipe cinders?" he wanted to know.

"No," I said.

"It's very bad," Zale said. "You don't make much. When a guy don't want to go back to a certain thing, that's what makes him fight."

* * *

Once, after a Notre Dame-Northwestern game, I mentioned to a guy connected with Northwestern that a Notre Dame kid had been taken to a hospital.

"One of our kids is in the hospital, too," he said.

That seemed to make it all right with him.

Jackie Hayes for 14 years was a capable second baseman in the American League. He dropped out of sight and I didn't catch up with him for years. I found him sitting against the fence in leftfield in the ball park where the Tigers train in Lakeland, Fla. There was a boxer curled up under the chair. Hayes was blind.

"Meet my roomie," Hayes said. "I got him after I stopped rooming with Luke Appling. I've had real good roomies in my time. Guys like Ted Lyons. Now I got the dog. I put my life into his hands every morning."

* * *

There was a cut across Billy Conn's nose and they were working on his eye after Louis knocked him out the second time. He was laughing and cynical with a wit that denounced himself.

"What are you going to do?" a fight reporter asked.

"He racked up my cue for me," Conn said.

"Are you going to fight again?"

"As lousy as I was," Conn said, "and you're asking that. I should re-enlist in the army I was so lousy tonight."

He kept his word and never tried it again. But he never got over it either. He woke me up the next morning.

"Tell me," he asked, "did I quit?"

"You'll have to answer that yourself," I said.

"Tell them the kid didn't quit," he said. "I didn't. I just couldn't get started."

* * *

I once asked Slim Fitzsimmons, the horsetrainer, if he knew anyone who had beaten the races.

"Some did," he said. "But they died young. If they lived long enough, they couldn't have kept it."

* * *

The grip for the volley is the same as for regular ground stroke shots—but the similarity ends there.

The racquet head should always be kept up and the wrist cocked. The racquet is held well out in front of the body and a player should be on his toes at all times.

The actual stroke is a short eight-inch thrust, similar to a parry in boxing, or a jab. Don't make a round-house swing.

After the shot is made it is important to get set immediately for a return. There's precious little time to relax when playing the net.

Former Globe Trotter Has Redbirds Humming

By UP International

The laughs have turned to cheers for Bob Gibson—a fellow who started in professional sports as a "clown" but is turning out to be quite a pitcher.

The 26-year-old native of Omaha, Neb., broke into organized sport as a member of the Harlem Globetrotters in 1957-58. The Globetrotters like to win, but making people laugh at their antics is their bread and butter.

The Cardinals, on the other hand, are interested in the very serious business of ending 15 years of competitive failure and winning their first National League pennant since 1946. And with Gibson firing bullets to help round out a staff of strong arms it's possible the Redbirds will accomplish just that.

The Cardinals swept to their eighth victory in 11 games Thursday night when they beat Houston, 3-2, behind the over-powering, near-no-hits pitching of the 6-1, 185-pound righthander. Gibson pitched no-hit ball until Roman Mejias opened the eighth with a homer, walked only two batters and struck out five. When he completed the seventh inning, Gibson, who had a 13-12 record in 1961, had pitched 10 consecutive hitless innings, including the last three against the Cubs on Sunday.

Gibson's wildness led to a Houston run in the second inning but the Cardinals tied the score on Julian Javier's fourth-inning homer and went ahead on a run-scoring single by Julio Gotay in the seventh. Stan Musial singled in Curt Flood with the winning run in the eighth.

SPORTS PARADE

Tee Pros Know Feel of Sticks Big Difference

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jimmy Demaret has a set of golf clubs which look like they were barely saved from a smelter and therein lies a lesson for the average golfer as he gets ready to start the fairway season in earnest.

Demaret's sticks have been altered beyond recognition. Weight has been added in heel, toe or sole, welded on and buffed off until the numbers long since have been obliterated.

"I never get through tinkering with them," says jovial James, who at 51 still was good enough to team with Sam Snead and win the Canada Cup for Uncle Sam. "That's because I change all the time; not the clubs."

Which should give you an idea concerning your clubs as you grow older and stronger, or weaker, as the case may be. You are changing constantly and so must your weapons.

PUTTING WORRIES

The pros realize this fully. One of them constantly is having new clubs made to specification. Maybe the face of a wood is shaved back a fraction for additional loft; the heads weighted or the shafts changed. Arnold Palmer has been trying for months to get an "exact duplicate" of his favorite putter to "feel" just like the original.

"I added weight, then I shaved it off bit by bit," he frowned. "I just can't seem to get it right."

Palmer worries more about his putting than any other

SPECIAL ORDER

St. Clair heads a busy department which handles some 70,000 special orders each year.

No matter what kind of clubs you prefer, St. Clair suggests that you go to a qualified professional to get "fitted."

"The shaft is the heart of the game," he explains. "So have a pro observe your swing, strength, size of hands, length of arms and general physical characteristics. They are all important. The pro will make certain you have the proper head weight, grip weight, shaft weight and length and swing weight."

Have you ever wondered why the faces of wood clubs are bulged and not those of the irons?

GEARING ACTION

"On the woods," says St. Clair, "the centre of gravity is an inch to the rear of the centre of the face and on the iron club—approximately one-quarter of an inch to the rear of the centre line of the shaft."

When the ball is hit off centre with a wood, a gearing action takes place because of the bulge on the face, and this compensates for a toe hit or a heel hit," he adds. "It tends to throw it back into its intended direction of flight. By comparison, the flat face of an iron, being closer to the centre of gravity, does not have the gearing effect which is obtained from the convex-faced wood."

You understand? Me, I'll just take his word for the whole bit.

Dief Claims All Promises Carried Out

(Special to the Times)

MOOSE JAW—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker made a fighting pre-campaign pitch for the farm vote Thursday as he told 1,700 cheering delegates here that there was no doubt about the outcome of the June 18 federal election.

The crowd of 1,700, largest political gathering in Moose Jaw's history according to party officials, half filled the city's gaping civic centre building. The speech wound up the party's provincial convention.

Warning his listeners that the official Conservative campaign would not start until May 5, the prime minister defended his government's farm program as a fulfillment of the promises he had made four years ago.

And he maintained that it was the government, and not the Canadian Wheat Board, which deserved the credit for the $400,000,000 grain deal with China.

"Let there be no mistake about this," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

No Help From Liberals, NDP

"And what does the National Liberal Party leadership say about this sale? They have sniped, they have criticized and they have griped."

Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson had criticized the government for granting credit to a government which it did not recognize. Hazen-Argue had called the deal a "hoax."

"That is the kind of assistance we got."

Mr. Diefenbaker revealed that the government's adoption of acreage payments for farmers was a substitute for the introduction of a two-price system for farm products.

$700 Million Deficit Defended

The Liberal leaders of today—Pearson and Martin and Pickersgill—were "the same old kind" that could export only 3,300 head of Canadian livestock in 1956.

"In 1956, western Canada farmers exported 426,000 head of cattle to the United States."

The Conservatives, in 1956, had asked for crop insurance. "Mr. Pearson says the Liberals have the answer. When we asked for that the answer was that it couldn't be done. We did it."

REBURIAL FOR VICTIMS OF EPIDEMIC

HAMILTON (CP)—Religious ceremonies are to be held to re-entomb the remains of about 100 cholera victims whose common grave was uncovered by bulldozers working on an expressway. The Hamilton Council of Churches will be asked to arrange a suitable service for the remains, believed to be those of victims of an epidemic in 1812.

BOYS, GIRLS AGREE SCHOOL UNIFORMS OK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three city co-eds plan to return to high school Monday wearing $4.95 grey uniforms, purchased on a whim "because they looked sort of neat."

Audrey Kostiluk, 16, Pat Sears and Cheryl McLeod, both 17, feel others will follow their example. There already is some reaction.

One boy said the uniforms, worn by the girls briefly before the Easter vacation, were "real mint," meaning approval.

School dress was discussed widely here recently when a North Vancouver girl was asked to leave school because of her "rat's nest," back-combed hair and overly short skirt.

NEW LOW PRICES ON ALL ATLAS TIRES

Esso dealers sell many lines of Atlas tires. There's a quality Atlas tire for every type of driving and every budget.

The prices on all Atlas tires have now been substantially reduced, with no reduction in quality.

For instance, the "first line" Atlas Plycron, the Atlas tire equivalent to those installed on new cars, used to list at $24.35 (6:50x13, tubeless blackwall). The new suggested retail price is $18.40. In the same way, the "third line" Atlas Mile-Pak, the Atlas economy tire, used to list at $15.95 (6:70x15, tubed blackwall). The new suggested retail price is $12.95.

Atlas recognizes there are other tires on the market for $9.95 or less. They are called "fourth line" tires. And they are just that. The price reflects the quality. Atlas does not sell a fourth line tire because it has not found a fourth line tire that will meet Atlas standards of quality and performance.

The next time you're in the market for tires, see your Esso dealer first. Compare his Atlas quality. Compare his Atlas price. Compare his Esso-matic credit arrangements and his new Atlas guarantee. On any basis, you'll find his deal is "right with the times"—the top deal for you.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammonia Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mike Brookes, age 14, of Lake Grove, Ore., for his question:

Where did we get the guinea pig?

In the 16th century, busy sailing ships traveled back and forth between Europe and the Guinea Coast of West Africa. The masters of these trading vessels were called Guineamen and their fascinating wares came from distant ports around the world. Sometimes the Guineamen carried chubby little animals, never before seen in Europe, in his cargo.

These fat, furry little animals arrived in Europe about 300 years ago. Since they came on sailing ships from the Guinea Coast of Africa, people assumed that the little animals were natives of Guinea. They were fat as pigs and they often grunted like pigs—so it seemed quite natural to call them Guinea pigs. Nothing could have been further from the truth. For the guinea pig is not a pig, nor is he a native of Africa. He is a buck-toothed rodent, cousin to the rat and the rabbit.

Coats of Long, Silky Fur

These first guinea pigs were brownish-grey and their fur was short. They looked like their wild relatives that still live in the Andes. The pet guinea pigs enjoyed being adopted by human children and soon began to change. Today, most pet guinea pigs have coats of long, silky fur. Many of them wear two colors in striking blotches of black and white, pearly greys, browns and blond honey colors.

The wild guinea pig is called the cavy. He builds a burrow and feeds by night. Mrs. Cavy has two babies to a litter and the frisky balls of fur start looking for food the same day they are born. The tame guinea pig produces far more offspring, bigger litters and more often.

Some of us shudder to learn that the cuddly guinea pig is used as a laboratory animal, usually in medical research. It is true that countless numbers of guinea pigs live and die for medicine, but in a proper laboratory the little animals are tended as carefully as pets and certainly not allowed to suffer.

The wild guinea pig is called the cavy. He builds a burrow and feeds by night. Mrs. Cavy

Sanctuary for Bird Slogan Assured by Publicity Chief

Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, Thursday assured city council that the traditional "Follow the Birds to Victoria" slogan is here to stay.

"We have no intention of dropping that slogan as far as the city is concerned—it is too valuable," he said.

Ald. Curtis was commenting on a letter by Y.P.O. Vesey that the slogan had been given second place to the new catchphrase boasting "Canada's Treasure Island."

But Ald. Curtis conceded the new slogan was used frequently in Island publicity brochures in order to obtain provincial government grants which prohibit exclusive promotion of any one community.

Aldermen approved a resolution to be sent to the provincial and national civic government conventions calling on the federal government to make it a crime to sell "salacious" literature to juveniles.

The term has much wider scope than exists under the present anti-obscenity regulations and might even extend as far as banning "cheesecake" publications from sale to youths under 18.

Mayor R. B. Wilson scored a point off downtown property owners who didn't care about appearances.

"I know of buildings in this city that haven't been painted for 30 years," city assessor Alfred Joyce told council.

LABOR BOARD INVESTIGATING

Employees' Group, Union Fight in Hydro Authority

The labor relations board will investigate a battle between a trade union and a non-union association for the right to represent B.C. Hydro employees, a spokesman said today.

The fight is between the Office Workers' International Union, Local 378, which represented B.C. Electric employees, and the B.C. Power Commission Employees' Association, which is not a trade union.

The office workers, claiming a majority of employees in the new B.C. Hydro—a merger of BCE and BCPC—has applied for certification.

James A. Twells, president of the non-union group, says its 360 members are being pressured against their wishes to join the union.

The government spokesman for the labor relations board said it will hear representations from both sides, and possibly call formal hearings.

He said the non-union group has 10 days to appeal the certification bid.

Mr. Twells said he was seeking legal advice and would oppose the application.

The power commission group held a vote last November in which 143 members were against joining a union and 46 were in favor.

"We've had meetings with the union officials and informed them it was the wish of our members that we don't want to be unionized."

'BRAINWASHING'

"Since the referendum they've been calling up our members and trying to brainwash them. But so far as I've heard nobody has swung over."

Mr. Twells said the B.C. Electric union members got more money but fewer fringe benefits than the power commission group.

He said the union dues are from $2.50 to $5 a month while his group charges only 75 cents.

"We work on a binding contract which has worked out very favorably in the past," he said.

"A union is of no value to us now because we don't have the power to strike and neither does the union," he said.

Fumes Kill Man Working on Car

A Saanich man died of carbon monoxide poisoning Thursday while working on his car in a closed garage.

"That sort of thing is just inviting disaster," he said. "Carbon monoxide poisoning can come without warning. Always make sure you have adequate ventilation where a motor is running."

Only relative of the dead man lives in England.

30 BREATH-TAKING BEAUTY SPOTS OPEN TO PUBLIC DURING THREE-DAY FESTIVAL

Victoria Becomes Garden Capital of Pacific Coast Next Thursday

A big turnout of visitors from all parts of B.C. and Pacific Coast areas in the U.S. is expected for Victoria's three-day Spring Garden Festival which opens next Thursday.

The festival, sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society, features conducted tours to some of the most beautiful gardens in the Greater Victoria area.

Thomas J. Sawyer, chairman of the festival committee, is confident that this year's attendance will smash all records.

Bags of visitors are expected from Nanaimo, Vancouver, New Westminster and Seattle, he said.

"We have also received numerous inquiries from people in Oregon and California," he said. "All we need is good weather to make the event a success."

This year's program includes conducted bus tours to 15 private gardens.

In addition, 15 other gardens which are not on the scheduled bus tours will be open to visitors each of the three afternoons, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, between the hours of 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

There will be no attendants on duty at these gardens and visitors will be on their own.

Festival headquarters will be at the C & C Transportation Co. terminal, 906 Government

Street, which is also the point from which the bus tours will start each day at 1 p.m.

Tours to the following gardens will be held Thursday: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ostler, 3001 McAnally Road; F. Leo Bishop, 3045 McAnally Road; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Todd, 451 Newport Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. N. Abkhazi, 1964 Fairfield Road.

Friday: Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, 2985 Rutland Ave.; Mr.

and Mrs. David Cooper, 1988 Ferndale Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Anson Flirth, 2676 Queenswood Drive; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edgell, 3230 Beach Drive; Mrs. J. G. Worth, 2833 Beach Drive; Saturday: Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Ahier, 1233 Palmer Road; Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Woodwynn Farm, Saanich Road; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hammill, 8337 Patricia Bay Highway; Mrs. S. L. McMullen, 1800 Tyndall Ave.

Other residents who have opened their gardens are: Mrs. M. W. Fleck, 2781 Sea View; Mrs. C. A. Watson, 3460 Bonair Place; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roper, 161 Beach Drive; C.N.R. Villas, 950 Humboldt Street; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Scaplen, 751 Harding Lane, Brentwood; Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. George Paulin, 11046 Chalet Road; Capt. and Mrs. W. B. Holmes, 157 View Royal Avenue. (This garden open only Thursday, May 3, from 1 to 5 p.m.)

MONTE ROBERTS

Our mutual friend Jim Dunn, who likes to go down to the sea (but not too far) in ships (but not too large), has solicited my support in a crusade, and I am happy to join, because this crusade has all the earmarks of an ideal losing crusade.

It is about time this space got back on the losing side after inadvertently emerging among the winners in the Foul Bay episode.

Getting back to friend Dunn, he points out the yachting season is about to be under full sail, what with the Royal Victoria Opening Day Saturday, and the Swiftsure classic hull down on the horizon heading in this direction at a rate of knots.

And J. Dunn wishes to launch this crusade: a crusade to stamp out "sleek" as an adjective for sailboats.

Stout, sturdy, handsome, graceful, even "Ocean Greyhounds," he can take.

But sleek? Why sleek, he asks? It has a sort of sneaky sound to it, envisaging an international spy slinking into an easy-baby reception, a black silk gown clinging well below the long cigarette holder she clasps daintily in her fingers.

This, says J. Dunn, is no way to adjectiveize a boat designed to get from here to there under wind-power, in the shortest possible time commensurate with safety.

I agree heartily, and offer herewith my support for a crusade which is bound to lose.

Keep your eyes on the reports of Australia's challenger for the America Cup, and you'll see what I mean.

Another mutual friend, Ray Wormald, has a spoonerized pun somebody gave him, and he wishes to know what to do with it.

A fellow was out fishing in this lake, see, and he dropped his wallet overboard by mistake, see.

And this carp came along, see, and grabbed the wallet in its mouth, see, but before he could make off with it, see, another carp came along and snatched the wallet.

So this was the first time the fellow had ever seen carp to earp walleting, see?

Any suggestions as to what friend Wormald should do with this spoonerized pun?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The frigate HMCS Antigonish of the 4th Escort Squadron, RCN, will be on view to the public at the Canadian Pacific Jetty, foot of Oswego Street, on Saturday and Sunday from 1:30 to 4:15 p.m.

"All are welcome but security regulations forbid the use of cameras aboard," an RCN official said.

James Bay 5th Fort Victoria Cub group will hold a "fun night" at the community hall, Pilot and Dallas, on Tuesday at 7 p.m. There will be fancy-work, home cooking, tombola and superfluities stalls, tea and bingo.

A rummage sale will be held by 2nd Fort Victoria (Fairfield) Scouts and Cubs on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon at the Chester Street Scout Hall. Coffee will be served.

Vacuum cleaners and attachments worth $400 were taken from a salesman's car Wednesday between 7:35 and 10:50 p.m. as it was parked in a supermarket lot.

City police said John Lorenzen, 8355 West Saanich Road, reported as missing a new vacuum cleaner, a hair dryer with suds attachment and a package of filters.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Your paper recently mentioned Charles Lindbergh as having visited Victoria in 1931. Was his "Spirit of St. Louis" the first aircraft to fly the Atlantic?—W.P.

A. No, the first trans-Atlantic flight was made from St. John's, Newfoundland, to a bay near Clifden, County Galway, Ireland, in 1919. Capt. John Alcock, DSC, and Lt. Arthur Whitten Brown took off on June 14 at 5:13 p.m. in a Vickers "Vimy" and landed in Ireland at 9:25 a.m. on June 15. During their flight they were at times only 10 feet above the sea.

However, Lindbergh was the first person to fly the Atlantic solo from New York to Paris. He did this in May, 1927.

Q. When is a citizen, from another part of the Commonwealth now resident in Canada, allowed to vote in a federal election?—S.M.

A. He must have resided in Canada at least 12 months prior to the federal election polling date.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Mayor." Questions and answers will be published daily.

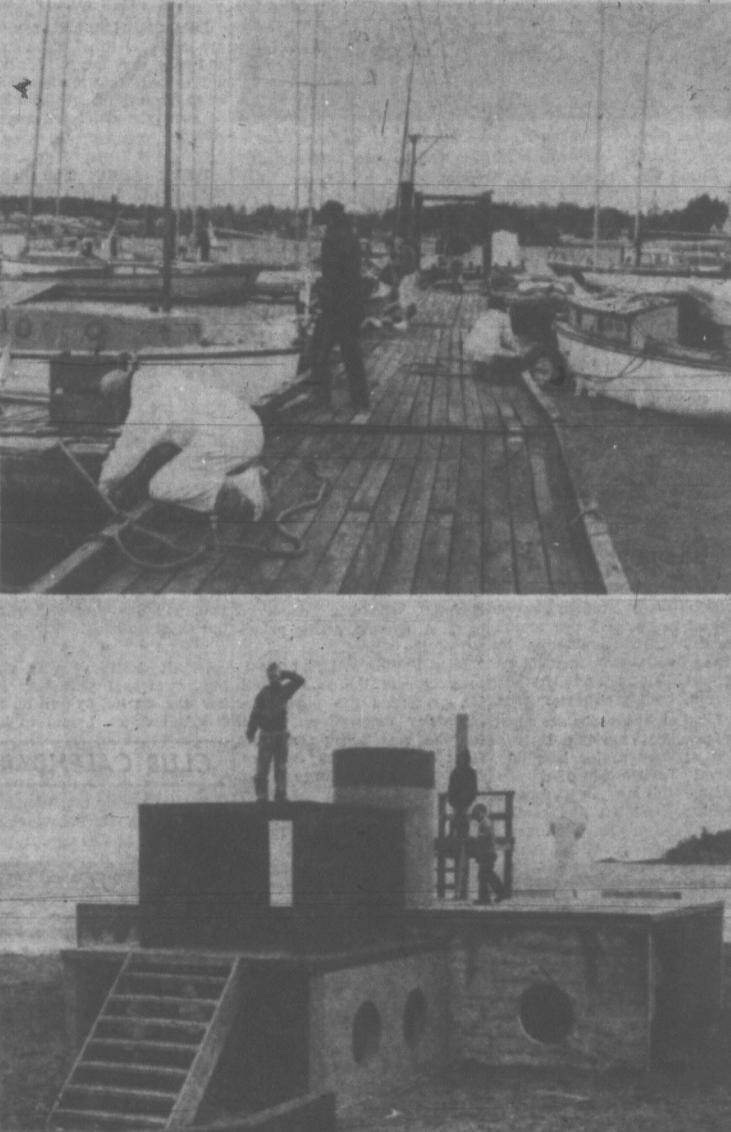

All questions should deal with matters of general interest to the public. The Times does not undertake to solve commercial or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or similar items.

Letters should be submitted to a dealer.

Victoria Sketch Club will meet in Greater Victoria Art Gallery Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

CPR police reported a radio stolen from the Princess Margarette Wednesday night.

The radio, a transistor valued at $105, was enclosed in a case with the name Pendray Harris on each side.

SOMETIMES A PAINTED SHIP

upon a painted ocean has an advantage over the real thing—especially on a day when nature forgets April is here, and throws a December-style windstorm at the city. Royal Victoria Yacht Club members (top) left jobs and homes to secure small craft chafing at moorings even in sheltered waters of Cadboro Bay. More solid ship is "stone frigate" (bottom) at Gyro Park, at north end of Cadboro Bay—a toy ship built on land as a plaything for children.

Man's Attack On Woman 'Outrageous'

The leader section will meet on Sunday at 8 a.m. at the Town and Country shopping centre parking lot for an expedition to the marine gardens at Fort Renfrew via Jordan River.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Don't Let Fear of Calories Eliminate Potatoes In Diet

By PENNY SAVER

Belief that potatoes are fattening can be forcefully offset by remembering they are also a vital part of our diet.

Any food contains calories, but it must be judged for the other values before being eliminated from a diet for weight control reasons.

Potatoes, for example, contain vitamin C or ascorbic acid, vitamin B1 or Thiamine, iron and other minerals that are very important to a well-planned and well-balanced diet.

There are many interesting and time-saving packaged potato products on the market today, and some of the newest are sliced potatoes, scalloped and au gratin potatoes.

Sliced potatoes are packed in foil to ensure freshness. A chart on the side of the box gives direction for preparation and they can be used in a variety of ways: hashed brown, lyonnaise, in soups or stews, or in any recipe that calls for slice potatoes. An eight-ounce package containing servings for 10, sells for 39 cents.

Each package of scalloped potatoes contains two foil envelopes, one of potato slices and one of a seasoned sauce mix comprised of onions, parsley and a blend of spices.

To use you simply add boiling water and butter and bake for 35 minutes. They can be used in casserole dishes, combined with meats or fish to make delicious one-dish meals.

A five and three-quarter-ounce package contains four to six servings and is 39 cents.

Au gratin potatoes are a combination of potato slices and Canadian cheddar cheese sauce mix. Each package is in separate foil envelopes. The sauce is a blend of cheddar cheese, toasted onions, pimento and appetizing spices.

This potato dish is ideal for combining with mushrooms, ham or green peppers for casserole dishes with a difference.

A package containing six and a half ounces with servings for four to six is 59 cents.

Call me if you want to know where to find these new potato products.

A. You did not say whether you have been taking MY exercises, or how many exercises you have taken, or how many times a day you have done them. Therefore, it is difficult to answer.

You are certainly not overweight, even if you have a very small build. Perhaps this is part of the trouble—you do not have any fatty deposits to lose. However, you should have added more to your bust

Course Opens Door to Nursing

Eight proud women realized their dreams Thursday afternoon in Holyrood House when they graduated as practical nurses from the British Columbia Vocational School of Victoria.

This is the second graduating class from the school, which is one of three in British Columbia financed jointly by the federal and provincial governments. The others are in Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Graduating were Mrs. Charles Collette, Mrs. Jack Greenside, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, Mrs. Roy White and the Misses Donna Burkmar, Wendy Hook, Iona Mawdsley and Freda Stewart.

To all of them the year's course meant an unexpected opportunity to become nurses. Some, like Mrs. White and Mrs. Collette, had raised families before welcoming the course as a chance for new training.

Others like Miss Hook, 18, and Miss Mawdsley, 20, gave up other work to take the course.

After a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs and Powell River, Mr. and Mrs. Edward George Fairless will make their home in Port Alberni where the bride is on the staff of the Alberni Elementary School.

The couple were married in Esquimalt United Church on Saturday in a double-ring ceremony. Rev. G. H. Turpin officiated.

The bride, the former Miss Wanda Faye Kelly, is the daughter of Mrs. Nora Kelly, Salmo, B.C., and the late Else Kelly. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fairless of Victoria.

Given in marriage by John Craig, the bride wore an imported gown of white peau de soie that had a self-rose highlighting the bustle effect at back of floor-length skirt that swept back to a train. Bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and lily point sleeves. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her bouffant shoulder-length veil. Deep red roses and white gardenias were in the cascade bouquet. Only jewelry was a small pearl pendant and matching earrings, gift of the groom.

Easter decorations formed a backdrop with white satin bows and lily of the valley, arranged by Mrs. N. Watt, marking pews. Organist was Mrs. Margaret Dixon.

Reports — Mrs. W. Norton presided at meeting of the Salt Spring Island Sunshine Guild when reports were given on hospital visits and other welfare activities. Sum of $10 was donated to the Red Cross. Plans were finalized for annual spring tea to be held Friday at 2 p.m. in Mahon Hall at Ganges. Refreshments were served by Mrs. B. Krebs and Mrs. E. L. Lumley.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Dawson Creek Could Be on Way to a New Prosperity

By ELIZABETH FORBES

If the development of the Peace goes ahead as citizens of Dawson Creek believe, it won't be the big surprise if it was 20 years ago, when the town was named "Mile Zero" of the Alaska Highway.

"We had no warning then," old timers told me when I was Forbes up in that north country recently, "it just happened. First we knew of it a United States colonel and half dozen army officers appeared in the village, pitched two tents and said they had come to build a road."

They still reminisce about the big twice-a-month payroll that "practically paid over the one and only bank"; of guards that had to be maintained in that bank at payroll time and of the long lines that queued up to cash cheques.

"Any of us who had small accounts in the bank found it quicker to mail our deposits in than to walk across the street and wait to do it personally," they tell you.

This won't happen again, even if the development of the Peace brings another population explosion to the city.

No End to Possibilities

Do the people of Dawson Creek want the development of the Peace? "You can bet your last dollar that they do."

"It will be to the Peace River area and the north what the building of the CNR was to the prairies," they say. "There will be no end to the possibilities for development."

Citizens back up these statements by staking their savings in holdings at Hudson's Hope, a little over 80 miles away.

It was a sleepy little community of a few hundred pensioners and others (smaller even than Dawson Creek when the Alaska Highway was started), until preliminary work on the Peace power project was launched there recently.

Now there are 100 new workmen there, and 500 more men are expected soon. They have drilled for water and are working on sewage and there's a good gravel road ready for hard top.

WAIST-CINCHER TO FORE

PARIS (Reuters) — The 1962 French fashions are causing an undercover boom in France.

The foundation of the new fashions is waistline control, a smooth hipline and a well-defined bosom, with resultant tears for some women whose waistlines are uncontrolled and hiplines bumpy, but cheers from the French corset industry.

Industry statistics show that sales are up 10 per cent in the last year and in one leading Paris store the corset department almost doubled its turnover.

In this fashion capital, the best seller is the waist-cincher, known as the Guepiere. Even girls with the slimmest waistlines are buying these little corset belts to stress their natural curves.

Clubwomen's News

For Headmaster

Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt, VC, and Mr. H. B. Renwick were hosts at a cocktail party and reception in Shaughnessy Golf Club in Vancouver, Thursday evening, to honor Mr. J. J. Timmis, headmaster of University Boys' School in Victoria.

And they have "staked another claim" in Hudson's Hope.

"Not because we expect to leave Dawson Creek, our home is here," they tell you.

"But we do expect this development to be so great that in a few years, Dawson Creek and Hudson's Hope will practically be one. The potential, especially in the raw materials which have never been developed because of power, roads and rail shortage, is immense. It cannot help but benefit this city.

"If anyone here is against it, they should have their heads examined!"

Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. A. Whittaker will hold an "open house" for friends in their home at 2224 Edgewood Street on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. when they will honor their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Whittaker whose marriage took place recently in Prince George. Tea and sherry will be served and guests will be able to view the wedding gifts.

Brother Gives Bride in Marriage

Richard L. Rosebrugh gave his sister in marriage when Miss Amelia Louise Rosebrugh exchanged vows with Brian James Sewell in Esquimalt United Church recently. Rev. G. H. Turpin officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Rosebrugh of South Porcupine, Ont.; and Mr. and Mrs. George O. Sewell of Victoria.

Spring flowers decorated the church, which was illuminated with the glow of white candles that marked the guests' pews. Mrs. T. Dixon was organist and Mrs. Margaret Christison sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

The bride designed and made her gown of white peau de soie that featured a sheath skirt enhanced with a lace overskirt that swept back to a cathedral train. It had a bow at waistline as highlight. The lace bodice had a high scalloped neckline and long lily-point sleeves. A peau de soie rose held the fingertip-length veil. She carried a lace-covered Bible, topped with a mauve orchid, lily of the valley and dainty streamers.

Blouson gowns in combed blue satin, complemented with lace jackets were chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. Richard Rosebrugh, and bridesmaids the Misses Alice Miller and Wenda Sewell, the groom's sister. Tiny veils skirted their flowered headpieces and white carnations made up their bouquets.

Peter Bagley, New Westminster, was best man and ushers were AB Ronald Young, RCN, Aldergrove, B.C., and Richard Rosebrugh.

Spring flowers decorated the rooms and refreshment table at a reception held in the Gladstone Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gerrard, uncle and aunt of the groom.

VIPs to See Warning Centre

NANAIMO—More than 70 army and government officials will be here Tuesday to view construction of the provincial warning centre at Camp Nainamo.

They will make the visit as part of their annual two-day conference in Vancouver on national survival planning, and will fly here by RCAF Hercules aircraft.

Chairman of the conference, to be held at the army's Jericho base in Vancouver, will be Maj.-Gen. J. M. Rockingham, general officer commanding, western command.

Among those attending will be Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, for B.C., and other provincial ministers, army commanders, representatives of government agencies, and civil defence heads.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Young Mariner Safe After Mixed Up Day

CHEMINUS—Twelve-year-old Clive Hall of Langford, missing Thursday after having a rowboat for a ride at Thetis Island, turned up safely at neighboring Kuper Island.

He had been the object of an air, land and sea search before being picked up at 6:25 p.m. by the RCMP launch Sidney.

He and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hall, 759 Goldstream Avenue, Langford, had been spending the Easter holiday at Thetis Island with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wade, 835 Hockley.

Clive apparently had lost his bearings while rowing, went all around the island during the day, and finally landed on Kuper Island. He walked to the village on the island, but meanwhile his beached rowboat had been spotted by a search plane.

LADYSMITH—The village commission will approach Comox Logging and Railway Company to negotiate a two-way land sale which would benefit both parties.

Commissioner Arne Hill has suggested that property owned by the company would make an ideal park site, while the company's large machine shop building is situated on village-owned land. The proposed park land is situated west of the Slack Spit, where tennis courts and a sports area once were located.

The machine shop property has been leased by the company since it came to Ladysmith in the 1930s and the lease runs out in 1965.

Commissioner Hill said more land is needed for parks and "if we can't get this property, then we should be looking somewhere else."

If a transfer of ownership can be arranged, a plebiscite will be necessary to authorize the sales and purchases involved.

* * *

LADYSMITH—Building permits totalling $54,275 have been issued here to date this year, more than double the total for the whole of 1961.

Almost all of the permits issued this year were in the new areas included when the municipal boundaries were extended last summer.

LADYSMITH—The Cedar Community Association has named George Wilson as president to succeed Tom Michael, who stepped down after 15 years in the chair.

Other officers elected were Harold Adshead, vice-president; Mrs. K. Haley, secretary; Owen Morgan, treasurer; Mr. Michael, C. Williams and Mrs. P. Roine, directors.

Assets of $32,034.72 were reported, a net gain of $2,792.33 over 1961.

UNION BAY

Hall Move Fans Pulp Mill Talk

UNION BAY—Hopes for establishment of a pulp mill here by Canadian Collieries Resources Limited was strengthened today by reports that the company soon will move the local community hall to a new location.

The hall at present is on the shore side of the Island Highway, and is surrounded by company land which was surveyed in great detail recently. The company owns all other waterfront land in the immediate vicinity.

W. Johnstone, local representative for the company, said the move was being made under a land exchange agreement with the Union Bay Community Club, but would not speculate on the reason for the exchange.

He said it could be to make room for a pulp mill, but no definite word had been issued by his company to date.

Started last fall with the destruction of an old Chinatown, the move is expected to be completed in early May. Two Chinese bachelors and one family were evicted from the property when the shacks were burned in October.

* OTHER LAND

The Chinese family owned their own home but were leasing property from the company. They were given other land, but were required to pay for the move themselves. The bachelors moved to Cumberland.

Harry Tappin, Union Bay Improvement District commissioner, said plans are being made to clear an acre near the new location to be used as a ball park.

Recent rumors of negotiations for an agreement between Canadian Collieries and Crown Zellerbach for pulp contracts have been strengthened by the property exchange.

"Tofino-Cluclu residents pay more in the course of a year to replace mufflers, shock absorbers, tires and undercarriages, than the average Vancouver resident pays in property taxes," he said.

Mr. Squire said it took 2½ hours to drive the 65-mile road.

"The rural areas have been too long neglected, and if Premier Bennett is considering a provincial election, I would suggest that he start mending his political fences to see that outlying areas get proper consideration."

Mr. Squire said it was all very well to give concessions to big cities, such as the suggestion to drop tolls on Vancouver bridges.

Nuclear Arms Major Issue In Election Says Douglas

WAKAW, Sask. (CP) — Canada's role in nuclear disarmament is appearing as a major plank in the plat-

After outlining his party's agricultural platform to an audience of 400 Thursday night in this rural east-central Saskatchewan town, Mr. Douglas told them that the most important issue of the June 18 election is "whether the human race is going to destroy itself in a nuclear war."

He opened his federal campaign Wednesday night in Regina after receiving the New Democrats nomination, again dressing the nuclear issue.

"If we do not solve the problem of nuclear war, there will be no reason to solve the other problems; we'll all be destroyed," he said in Wakaw.

'MORE AGGRESSIVE'

"Canada has to be much more aggressive in taking a leader's role in working for nuclear disarmament. The nuclear club must not be allowed to get any bigger."

He said Canada should not allow nuclear arms on Canadian soil or allow them to be given to Canadian forces. He said he is willing to agree that nuclear arms have some deterrent value, but with mutual inspection and control they should be abolished.

He was critical of the Progressive Conservative stand on nuclear arms and said they already have been committed to accepting nuclear arms but are waiting until after the election before announcing it.

He said External Affairs Minister Green is against nuclear arms, Defence Minister Harkness advocates them and Prime Minister Diefenbaker "on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays supports Mr. Green and on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays supports Mr. Harkness."

NDP PROGRAM

Mr. Douglas said the NDP would:

1. Set up producer-appointed marketing agencies for all farm commodities on a national or regional basis;

2. Would negotiate in advance with the agencies each year to set a guaranteed parity price, with the government making up the difference to farmers when prices fell below the parity level;

3. Would provide grants and capital loans to the marketing agencies to store, process and package producer goods;

4. Give grants and capital loans to farmer organizations on a co-operative basis for them to produce equipment and goods necessary to operate; and

5. Extend individual credit to farmers to allow them to operate on an economic and efficient basis.

EXPROPRIATION FOR PARKING SITES

City Heads Off 'Footsie' Charges

City council Thursday voted to expropriate all properties it wants for the two proposed parking garage sites so that nobody will be able to accuse it of "playing footsie under the table with anyone."

Aldermen approved motions by Ald. Michael Griffin to:

Take immediate possession of two View Street lots owned by the Balcom estate interests; initiate expropriation proceedings for two neighboring lots owned by the T. Eaton Co. and Dominion Construction Co., and complete expropriation of three properties at the Yates and Langley site.

He said that some owners of the various properties had been willing to co-operate but others did not want to sell.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and Ald. Griffin denied the allegation.

Firm involved was O'Neill Glass and Paint Ltd. they refused to discuss any price at all, period."

The allegation was referred to Mayor Wilson and city manager C. C. Wyatt for investigation.

NEW SHAKEUP AMONG TOP COMMUNISTS

MOSCOW (AP) — Two changes in top-level Communist party personnel were announced Thursday in Pravda. This set off new speculation among Westerners as to what is going on behind the Kremlin walls.

The Communist party newspaper published a brief note saying Alexei P. Kirilenko had been elevated to the party presidium, a high post in world communism, after having been dropped last fall from candidate membership. He has been a party official for 30 years.

The same note said Ivan Spiridonov had been relieved of his post as one of the secretaries of the party's central committee.

SYNOD CONCLUDES

New Body Named On Church Unity

How far is unity possible among the Christian churches?

APPROVED

The question arose during the 60th session of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia (Vancouver Island), which concluded on Thursday afternoon.

Archbishop Harold Sexton pointed out that, while the Anglican Church has much in common with the United and Presbyterian Churches, the latter have no episcopate (hierarchy of bishops) and he believed Anglicans should "hold fast" to the episcopate.

He stated, too, that no scheme of unity could be complete unless it included the Church of Rome.

A majority of clergy and lay delegates attending the synod agreed that the Anglican Church should seek unity with other Christian churches "wherever possible."

COMMITTEE NAMED

Accordingly, they gave unanimous support to a resolution calling on the archbishop to appoint a committee to investigate the possibilities of church union "at the parochial and rural level."

The synod approved an increase in the minimum stipend paid to Anglican clergymen from $3,000 a year to $3,300 effective July 1.

The increase was actually proposed by some clergy.

"I think this extra money could be employed more usefully elsewhere," said Rev. D. A. Hatfield of St. John the Baptist, Colwood. "Our work for the church cannot be evaluated in financial terms."

Mr. Hatfield again referred to the increased stipend when the synod elected delegates to the church's general synod at Kingston, Ont., this summer.

Representing the clergy will be Canon F. C. Austin, Canon T. Bailey, Canon B. T. Page, Ven. P. R. Ellis, Ven. A. E. Hendy, and Dean Brian Whittle of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria.

Lay delegates will be Col. H. Fairfax Webber, Col. D. S. Mitchell, W. E. Mantle, Capt. T. B. T. Hewett, H. L. Henderson and Dr. Frank T. Fairley.

Elected to the synod's executive committee were:

Canon T. Bailey, Canon H. J. Jones, Canon B. T. Page, Canon G. H. Greenhalgh, Ven. R. B. Horsefield, Rev. T. D. B. Ragg, Rev. C. E. Lonsdale and Rev. J. A. Roberts.

Representing the laity on the executive committee are:

Capt. T. B. T. Hewett, J. S. Gilbert, H. L. Henderson, Col. D. S. Mitchell, Dr. G. G. Reynolds, Peter Stone, Dr. Frank Fairley and W. E. Mantle.

Nominated to the committee from rural deaneries were:

Rev. D. B. Houghton, Canon F. C. Austin, Capt. C. F. Gibson, Rev. William Hills, Capt. J. H. Worsley and D. L. Handley.

Honor Programs to Conclude Dance Festival

ternational Dance Festival plus two honor programs to night and Saturday. It is already obvious that the festival is an outstanding success.

Both entries and attendees have considerably exceeded what was anticipated. Competitors have come from as far away as Montreal and San Francisco and standards have been good and in some cases exceptional.

It is worth noting incidentally, that this festival idea was born in the now defunct centennial sub committee for events and attractions, chaired by Glyn Jones, and is a good example of what Victorians can do for themselves with a little official co-operation.

FIRST OF ITS KIND

All credit should go to the sponsors of the idea and organizers for this first event of its kind in the city—Adeline Duncan and Heather Duncan Jolley.

Western Canada Boys' High and championship was danced off Thursday night and Victoria's Angus MacKenzie was declared the winner, being placed top by adjudicator Betty Jessiman in all three events—Highland Fling, Sword Dance and Seann Triubhas.

Hospital in Cartons Ready for Disaster

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's first atomic disaster hospital—packed in cartons—is to be available at Chilliwack by year's end, Dr. A. A. Larsen, B.C. director of emergency health services, said Thursday.

He told the B.C. Public Health Institute conference the emergency hospital equipment, including 200 beds in long-term storage cartons, is being assembled in a Chilliwack army depot.

The province hopes eventually to have several "advance treatment centres" of a field ambulance type with stretchers and hospital equipment in small interior communities, Dr. Larsen said. These should be coming in "within weeks," he said.

They would be kept outside Vancouver to avoid destruction in case of atomic attack here. They would follow army units as they moved away from the disaster area, treating the wounded brought from the explosion area.

Centres such as Princeton, Vernon, Kelowna and Kamloops would be considered accessible storage sites on the mainland and Nanaimo, Courtenay and Duncan to serve the Victoria area.

Dr. George Elliott, deputy provincial health officer, told the conference in another session that overlapping in the work of some voluntary health agencies or "disease clubs" is wasting money.

He said they should all work through the new health council formed a month ago by the Community Chest.

"Disease clubs have sent their social workers or secretaries on a safari to beat the bushes in the hinterland and scare out the disease," said Dr. Elliott.

"They have done this so that it can be part of their program and became another statistic which, of course, can then be used to request more support."

Brown was publisher of the old Toronto Globe and cabinet minister in the government of Sir John A. Macdonald.

Mr. Bassett commented: "A member of Parliament is entitled to earn a living and I don't suppose Mr. Ryan intends to close down his legal business."

Asked whether he believed his newspaper and television associations would place him in a compromising position, Mr. Bassett replied "not in the slightest."

Truck Hits Store COURtenay (CP) — Brake failure sent a huge trailer truck rolling backward into a store front at nearby Royston Wednesday.

Driver Clint Dawson said he was unable to hold the vehicle with the brakes. The trailer rammed six feet into the store, but there were no injuries.

U.K. Press Critical Of Mac's U.S. Speech

LONDON (CP)—British newspapers reflect a feeling of anti-climax over Prime Minister Macmillan's speech Thursday to the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The Yorkshire Post, Conservative, says the premier's "so-called keynote speech . . . may have gone down well with the brandy; but it was hardly strong enough to cause any hangovers."

Left-wing newspapers are more critical.

"Mr. Macmillan, this just won't do . . . says The Daily Mirror in a large black headline.

The Manchester Guardian, Independent Liberal, says it must be supposed from advance publicity that the prime minister himself regarded the speech as a major pronouncement.

"Its greatest weakness—as of the government's policy as a whole—is that the prime minister seems not to have any consistent attitude to Britain's place in the world," says The Guardian.

Three Conservative newspapers which did not comment editorially viewed the speech as a progress report on Britain.

NOTES FOR KHRUSHCHEV

The Daily Express says it was a report "with a few notes tossed in for Mr. Khrushchev." The Daily Mail feels Macmillan gave a "buoyant picture" of Britain's role in the nuclear era and The Daily Telegraph reports it as a message of "quiet faith" in the future.

The Daily Herald, a Labor newspaper, says Macmillan spoke with "melancholy realism" about the decline in strength and influence of Britain and Europe.

The prime minister recognized, as some members of the Tory party are still most unwilling to do, that the balance of power in the world has shifted dramatically."

Most criticism concerns what the British leader did not say.

Says the Yorkshire Post: "He might have said a word or two about Britain's independent nuclear deterrent, and more than a passing word or two about the Common Market instead of making half-apologetic references to matters of history . . ."

He missed a great chance to present Britain's case for being other than a United States satellite."

The Daily Mirror cries: "Not a word about the perils of the Berlin situation."

"Nothing about the near-crisis of China's pressure for a seat in the United Nations . . ."

Macmillan said Americans should not look upon Englishmen the way Englishmen do. "I want you to think and speak of Britain not in the disparaging way the British are fond of using about themselves to each other," he said.

"On the contrary, stand back and look at a picture painted with a broader brush. It's a picture of strength and vigor. We are confident we can play our role in the world as proudly and as effectively as our forebears."

Macmillan meets with President Kennedy Saturday before going to Ottawa for talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"We must not abandon our efforts in the nuclear or any other sphere where we can find the possibility of some agreement between East and West to their mutual advantage and to that of the whole world," Macmillan said.

"They are beginning to want, and hope to get, what people all over the world want—better conditions of housing, clothing and some of the amenities of life," he added.

Macmillan said the duty of Britain and the U.S. is a simple one—to be firm but patient; never to give ground, but never to take provocative action, and to wait.

Perhaps in one or two generations, he said, the "young" will begin to look again for peoples of that vast area overseas aid and investment in the U.S.A. spiritual, food, without public account is as great as which man has never lived for that of the United States," he continued.

Macmillan devoted part of his speech to a "picture of my own country."

"The proportion of our national production devoted to overseas aid and investment in the U.S.A. is as great as which man has never lived for that of the United States," he continued.

"It's greatest weakness—as of the government's policy as a whole—is that the prime minister seems not to have any consistent attitude to Britain's place in the world," says The Guardian.

Second Nuclear Shot Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today fired the second shot of its planned series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Like the first on Wednesday, it was a detonation of a device dropped from an airplane in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific.

An announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission said the shot was touched off about 11 a.m. EST, and the detonation was in the intermediate range.

This description is used for a shot with a force greater than the explosive force of 20,000 tons of TNT but less than that of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

No other details were given.

New Wave Of Strikes In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — A new wave of strikes broke out in various parts of Algeria today as business leaders deplored the drastic drop in commerce caused by terrorism and insecurity.

The post offices, telephone and telegraph services, banks, gasoline service stations and the University of Algiers were affected.

The strikers joined an estimated 8,000 industrial workers in the Gran area who went on a strike of indefinite length Wednesday.

The president of the Algerian Commercial Club, Adrien Chollet, said imports from France dropped 20 per cent during the first three months of 1962, and business has fallen as much as 80 per cent in some sectors.

BUTTER PRICE DROPS TUESDAY

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Commencing Tuesday the retail price of butter will drop by 12 cents a pound and the price of cheese will rise by one-half a cent a pound.

The new prices go into operation May 1 under the revamped dairy price support program announced earlier this year by the federal government.

It is estimated the new program will cost more than $50,000,000 in its first year of operation.

It is hoped it will increase consumption across Canada and thereby reduce the government's mounting surplus of butter now at around 170,000,000 pounds, by making prices to the housewife more competitive with margarine.

The consumer subsidy — which the taxpayers will pay through the federal treasury — will bring the retail price of butter down from around 70 cents to between 58 and 59 cents a pound depending upon the area. This price compares with a margarine price of between 58 and 55 cents a pound.

Two Men Survive Helicopter Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuter) — Eight bodies were recovered from the wreckage of a United States Army helicopter, found today after being missing since Wednesday.

Another helicopter discovered the wreckage 37 miles southwest of Bethel, and about 500 miles west of here. There were two survivors from the craft which was taking U.S. national guard advisers on a routine visit to national guard detachments in the Bethel area.

The helicopter was reported overdue Wednesday but bad weather delayed the search.

The survivors were identified as Sgt. John Fannin of Monroe, Mich., and M. Sgt. James Acosta of Bethel.

They were found Thursday

MAIDS GO ON STRIKE

Vicar's Ghost Ties Laces

DEDDINGTON, England (Reuters) — The maids have gone on strike at the vicarage in this Oxfordshire hamlet because they say the place is haunted.

The vicar, Rev. Maurice Frost, died at 73 last Christmas Day.

His old servants have been refusing lately to enter the house...for fear of his ghost.

The vicar's cousin, Campbell Jarrett, who came here from Italy to settle his estate, said "noises have been heard in the study and coughs in the drawing room."

Once a "mysterious hand" drew him back into the drawing room, he said.

One of the maids, Mrs. Betty Spencer, said she saw the vicar's ghost sitting on his bed, tying his shoe laces.

IN U.K. Crippling Dock Strike Threatened

LONDON (AP) — Delegates representing Britain's 70,000 dock workers voted today to strike at midnight May 13 in support of demands for higher pay and a shorter work week.

Such a walkout would cripple ports all over Britain, cutting off vital food imports and halting the shipment of exports on which the country's economy depends.

It was the first official national dock strike notice to the employers since 1926, although there have been many partial work stoppages since then.

The four dock unions involved want a substantial but unspecified increase on wages which vary according to working conditions and the type of cargo handled, but in general range upward from £15 a week.

They also want the working week reduced from 44 to 40.

The employers have offered to negotiate on fringe benefits, but have insisted that they cannot afford to give way on the two major demands.

Midwestern States Raked by Tornadoes

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy thunderstorms and several tornadoes raked wide areas of the plains states Thursday.

Winds of tornado force battered Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Tex., Thursday night, damaging several buildings and injuring 11 persons.

Three tornadoes bounced around the Stamford - Anson area north of Abilene, Tex., causing some property damage. Others were sighted later but apparently didn't touch ground.

High winds destroyed five small planes and five hangars near Sayre, in western Oklahoma. Strong winds kicked up dust and sand storms in New Mexico.

A thunderstorm drenched Quail, Tex., with 2½ inches of rain in 30 minutes. The downpour collapsed part of the roof of the high school minutes after 50 students were ushered to safety.

Rioting Japanese Beaten Back

TOKYO (AP) — Screaming Japanese students, egged on by an American, tried to storm the U.S. Embassy today in protesting United States nuclear testing. About 100 got as far as the gates before police beat them back in kicking, shoving brawls.

Working themselves into a frenzy, about 2,000 Japanese students made repeated charges from two directions in the third day of demonstration.

About 300 policemen holding back their billy clubs and using their hands — roughed up the mob in the streets leading to the embassy compound's high walls.

When the police cordon held, many of the students flopped on the sidewalks, tying up the heavy afternoon traffic. The police finally pulled them up and shoved them down the street.

One of the speechmakers exhorting the students earlier was Ted Reynolds, son of Dr. Easle Reynolds, an American pacifist who teaches in Hiroshima.

THEY ARE STUPID!

"I'm against nuclear tests," young Reynolds said. "They are stupid."

Several embassy officers spent most of the day receiving protests from small groups of peaceful demonstrators. One group allowed to enter consisted of eight citizens of Hiroshima, target of the first 1945 U.S. atomic bombing.

Japanese socialists sent up a small plane to drop thousands of leaflets reading: "We cannot remain still any more. Stop the nuclear tests immediately."

In London Thursday night 2,000 anti-bomb demonstrators marched in Grosvenor Square in front of the U.S. Embassy. Police moved in and arrested 192 when the marchers spilled into the street, sat down to block traffic and refused to move.

The bonds came on the market this week priced at $99.30 per $100 face value. With a coupon of 5½ per cent, the bonds would yield an investor 5.29 per cent interest if held for the full 20-year term.

Even before the issue officially went on sale, investment dealers were reporting little interest from investors.

This in turn led many dealers to refuse all but a small part of the allotment offered them by the government.

The allotments were on a "take-and-pay" basis which meant that the dealers would be left holding any bonds which they could not sell.

$10 MILLION PROSPECT THWARTED BY DEATH

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Congress said he could do it. But pioneer aviator and inventor George C. Barnhart never got the chance to sue the U.S. government for the $10,000,000 he said it owed him.

Two months ago a special bill was passed by Congress and signed by President Kennedy, enabling Barnhart to file a suit he said would square the debt the government owed him.

But Thursday Barnhart, 86, collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack — before he had been able to file the suit.

The dispute was over a series of patents Barnhart turned over to the Army Air Corps in 1942 for the duration of the Second World War. One was for the split-edge wing flap, a landing brake used by most big planes from the late '30s to the jet age.

Barnhart never collected royalties on his inventions, patents for them being withheld while the war was in progress.

Storm Cuts Power, Hits Boats

Fierce winds generated by an all-time record low barometer disrupted light, power and phone service in the Greater Victoria area today, keeping police and repairmen hopping, knocking over trees, blowing in windows and halting some marine traffic.

Gusts hit as high as 76 miles per hour shortly after 10 a.m., and the Gonzales Heights weather office reported the average forenoon velocity as 40 to 50 miles per hour.

The winds were generated by low pressure area which moved in from the Pacific directly over the centre of the city. The barometer stood at 28.85, lowest ever recorded for April, and second lowest for any month in the 63 years history of the weather office.

Workmen Swamped

Major disruption was to light and power services, with B.C. Hydro and Power Authority workmen swamped with calls.

All Canadian Pacific telegraph and teletype services, and from Vancouver Island to and from Vancouver were cut by the big blow.

At noon today, repair crews had not yet been able to find out where the break occurred.

Most interruptions were caused by falling branches. Main areas affected, from 15 minutes to an hour, were parts of Sooke, McTchosin, Langford, Belmont housing, Cedar Hill, Ten Mile Point, Cadboro Bay, and the west end of the Gorge.

In addition, uncounted individual service interruptions, caused by broken lead-in lines, were reported.

Flood of Calls

Similarly, B.C. Telephone Co. crews were deluged with calls, nearly all of them reporting individual interruptions. At noon, additional calls were coming in.

A spectacular instance of blown-down wires occurred at Yates and Cook, when a 76-mile-per-hour gust blew down a wire leading to Olson Motors.

It narrowly missed two children as it hissed to the sidewalk shooting sparks. A motorcycle policeman directed traffic around the fallen wire until workmen disconnected it.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York State Athletic Commission today denied a boxer's licence to Sonny Liston of Philadelphia, thus upsetting prospects for holding Liston's September title fight against Floyd Patterson in New York.

Crime Probe Hoisted

TORONTO (CP) — Hearings of Ontario's royal commission on crime were halted indefinitely today when the Ontario Appeal Court decided to hear a case affecting commission procedure.

The four dock unions involved want a substantial but unspecified increase on wages which vary according to working conditions and the type of cargo handled, but in general range upward from £15 a week.

They also want the working week reduced from 44 to 40.

The employers have offered to negotiate on fringe benefits, but have insisted that they cannot afford to give way on the two major demands.

Huge Loan Offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor leader David Dubinsky offered today to invest $100 million by 1965 in pension funds to help finance development of family farms in the United States, Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, made the offer to Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

Dubinsky's statement came after Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the conference that "the United States does not wish, or is not ready, to agree to a declaration which would be of practical value to put an end to war propaganda poisoning of the international atmosphere."

The U.S. and Russia have been holding private talks on a propaganda ban, but have failed to agree on mutually acceptable language.

The Russian plan urges specific government action to stop war propaganda, consistent with constitutional procedures.

Dean said such action would be impossible, in view of the U.S. traditions of freedom of the press.

MONTE ROBERTS

Our mutual friend Jim Dunn, who likes to go down to the sea (but not too far) in ships (but not too large), has solicited my support in a crusade, and I am happy to join, because this crusade has all the earmarks of an ideal losing crusade.

(It is about time this space got back on the losing side after inadvertently emerging among the winners in the Fou Bay episode.)

Getting back to friend Dunn, he points out the yachting season is about to be under full sail, what with the Royal Victoria Opening Day Saturday and the Swiftsure classic hull down on the horizon heading in this direction at a rate of knots.

And J. Dunn wishes to launch this crusade: a crusade to stamp out "sleek" as an adjective for sailboats.

Stout, sturdy, handsome, graceful, even "Ocean Greyhounds," he can take.

But sleek? Why sleek, he asks? It has a sort of sneaky sound to it, envisaging an international spy slinking into an easy reception, a black silk gown clinging well below the long cigarette holder she clasps daintly in her fingers.

This, says J. Dunn, is no way to adjectivize a boat designed to get from here to there under wind-power, in the shortest possible time commensurate with safety.

I agree heartily, and offer herewith my support for a crusade which is bound to lose.

Keep your eyes on the reports of Australia's challenger for the America Cup, and you'll see what I mean.

Another mutual friend, Ray Wormald, has a spoonerized pun somebody gave him, and he wishes to know what to do with it.

A fellow was out fishing in this lake, see, and he dropped his wallet overboard by mistake, see.

And this carp came along, see, and grabbed the wallet in its mouth, see, but before he could make off with it, see, another carp came along and snatched the wallet.

So this was the first time the fellow had ever seen carp to carp walleting, see?

Any suggestions as to what friend Wormald should do with this spoonerized pun?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The frigate HMCS Antigonish of the 4th Escort Squadron, RCN, will be on view to the public at the Canadian Pacific Jetty, foot of Oswego Street, on Saturday and Sunday from 1:30 to 4:15 p.m.

"All are welcome but security regulations forbid the use of cameras aboard," an RCN official said.

James Bay 5th Fort Victoria Cub group will hold a "fun night" at the community hall, Pilot and Dallas, on Tuesday at 7 p.m. There will be fancy work, home cooking, tombola and superfluities stalls, tea and bingo.

A rummage sale will be held by 2nd Fort Victoria (Fairfield) Scouts and Cubs on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon at the Chester Street Scout Hall. Coffee will be served.

Vacuum cleaners and attachments worth $400 were taken from a salesman's car Wednesday between 7:35 and 10:50 p.m. as it was parked in a supermarket lot.

City police said John Lorenzen, 8355 West Saanich Road, reported as missing a new vacuum cleaner, a rebuilt cleaner, a hair dryer with suction attachment and a package of filters.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Your paper recently mentioned Charles Lindbergh as having visited Victoria in 1931. Was his "Spirit of St. Louis" the first aircraft to fly the Atlantic?

A. No, the first trans-Atlantic flight was made from St. John's, Newfoundland, to a bay near Clifden, County Galway, Ireland, in 1919. Capt. John Alcock, DSC, and Lt. Arthur Whitten Brown took off on June 14 at 5:13 p.m. in a Vickers "Vimy" and landed in Ireland at 9:25 a.m. on June 15. During their flight they were at times only 10 feet above the sea.

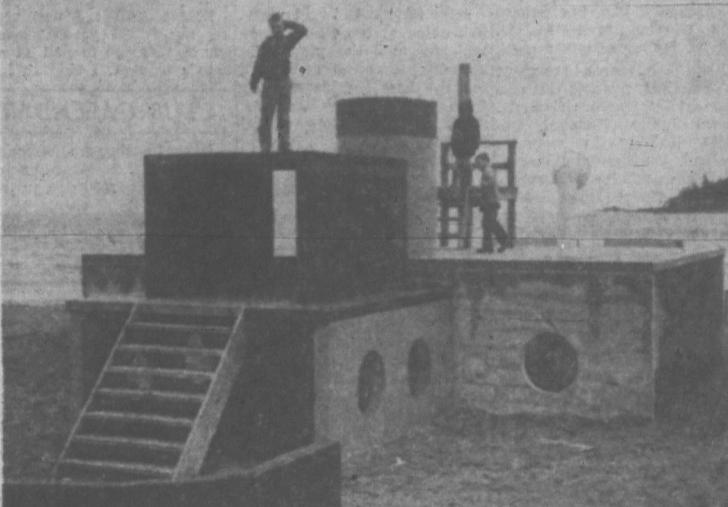

However, Lindbergh was the first person to fly the Atlantic solo from New York to Paris. He did this in May, 1927.

Q. When is a citizen from another part of the Commonwealth now resident in Canada, allowed to vote in a federal election?

A. He must have resided in Canada at least 12 months prior to the federal election polling date.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be printed daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not accept any legal or medical problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SOMETIMES A PAINTED SHIP

Upon a painted ocean has an advantage over the real thing—especially on a day when nature forgets April is here, and throws a December-style windstorm at the city. Royal Victoria Yacht Club members (top) left jobs and homes to secure small craft chafing at moorings even in sheltered waters of Cadboro Bay. More solid ship is "stone frigate" (bottom) at Gyro Park, at north end of Cadboro Bay—a toy ship built on land as a plaything for children.

Man's Attack On Woman 'Outrageous'

John O. Soderman, Munn's Road, was convicted today in city police court of assault, causing bodily harm, and placed on a $500 bond to keep the peace for six months.

Soderman was accused of assaulting Mrs. Christine Smith last Dec. 27 when Mrs. Smith was occupying basement rooms at 315 Langford where Soderman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Soderman, live.

The court was told Soderman, his wife and seven children were "having a Christmas party" at the house and Mrs. Smith rang up to complain about the noise overhead.

FORCED UPSTAIRS

Soderman was said to have gone down to the basement and forced Mrs. Smith upstairs, "sitting" her down in a kitchen chair.

Orthopedic special Dr. R. A. Grant said he examined the elderly woman the next day and found a number of bruises on her left arm and shoulder.

Magistrate William Oster described Soderman's conduct as "outrageous."

"It is disgraceful that a woman living alone should be subjected to this boorish and bullying treatment," he said.

Bridge Winners

Winners of the 1962 Open Pairs Duplicate Bridge Championship conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were Douglas and Violet Hawkes.

Arthur Kay and Cecil Moore, 1015 Moss, were fined $35 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving.

Victoria Sketch Club will meet in Greater Victoria Art Gallery Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

CPR police reported a radio stolen from the Princess Marguerite Wednesday night.

The radio, a transistor valued at $105, was enclosed in a case with the name Pendray Harris on each side.

SECOND HIT IN WEEK BY THIEVES

Thieves struck a service station at Fairfield and Cook for the second time in a week overnight and made off with assorted auto and household supplies.

City police said a key was probably used to enter the station. Four-used tires, two seat belts, flashlight batteries and some tins of wax and oil were among the articles taken.

It urged the board to discuss the matter further with the producers.

Victor E. Virgin, secretary of the farm organization, notified Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, chief medical health officer, that farmers will fight the board's proposal to assure inspection of locally produced meat.

SPECIAL AREA

The board has recommended the establishment of a special provincial meat inspection area covering the whole of the metropolitan health board district.

It also urged construction of one or two abattoirs.

The board's recommendations are awaiting action by the four municipalities of Greater Victoria.

Mr. Virgin said farmers want to make it perfectly clear that they are not opposed to meat inspection but "insist that it must be federally inspected."

COST-SHARING

He said this could be accomplished by constructing public abattoirs on a cost-sharing basis between the province and the federal government.

The federal government, he pointed out, has already signed its willingness to co-operate with the province and to work out a modified plan if necessary.

Sacred Leader Challenges Pearson

TORONTO (CP) — Robert N. Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit Party, today offered to engage in a television debate on election issues with Liberal Leader Pearson.

In a telegram to Mr. Pearson, which he also released to the press, Mr. Thompson said:

"Do not be too unhappy by prime minister's refusal to debate election issues on TV. I will."

Edmonton Golf Pro Goes Missing

EDMONTON (CP) — Police said today they are investigating the disappearance a week ago of Frank Willey, golf professional at the city-operated Riverside course.

Inspector Ernest Roberts of the criminal investigation division said Willey's car was found abandoned on a South Edmonton street shortly after his disappearance was reported.

Willey learned his golf in Vancouver, where he was born.

New York Rules Out Liston Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York State Athletic Commission today denied a boxer's licence to Sonny Liston of Philadelphia, thus upsetting prospects for holding Liston's September title fight against Floyd Patterson in New York.

Sabotage Blamed for Cuban Fire

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban newspapers today blamed sabotage for a fierce blaze which heavily damaged an important chemical fertilizer depot in Havana's suburbs Thursday night.

The Communist newspaper Hoy said nearly 100 persons were injured or overcome by the fumes and smoke.

Firemen were still at the scene today. The depot is the property of the government's National Agrarian Reform Institute.

Power Bond Sale Flops

Investment dealers in Victoria and Vancouver today were in general agreement that Premier Bennett's $25 million Hydro and Power Authority bond sale is a flop.

There was some measure of disagreement on the reason for the failure of the public to subscribe to the issue.

IN MEXICO

B.C. Man Stabbed To Death

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — A Vancouver man who inherited $100,000 last year was stabbed to death in a run-down hotel here Thursday.

Police said Wayne Arnold McLeod, 22, was found dead in a bathroom at the hotel near the Mexican-United States border.

He had been stabbed six times.

Ramon Flores Figueiro, 20, a taxicab driver, was arrested several hours later. Police said he had McLeod's passport and other personal papers in his possession.

Police said the cab driver has a puncture wound in the thigh and is being held on suspicion of murder.

Some dealers maintained the price was too high. Others declared that the price was right "under normal circumstances" but that unfavorable publicity received as a result of the B.C. electric takeover had made investors wary of the issue.

Many dealers were highly critical of the premier's action in attempting to set its own market price for the bonds rather than putting the issue out to tender.

The bonds came on the market this week priced at $99.50 per $100 face value. With a coupon of 5½ per cent, the bonds would yield an investor 5.29 per cent interest if held for the full 20-year term.

Even before the issue officially went on sale, investment dealers were reporting little interest from investors. This in turn led many dealers to refuse all but a small part of the allotment offered them by the government.

Propaganda Ban Plea By Russ Turned Down

GENEVA (Reuters) — The United States today rejected Russia's proposed declaration on the prohibition of war propaganda at the 17-country disarmament conference here.

U.S. delegate Arthur Dean said the Russian declaration itself "smacked a bit of propaganda."

Dean's statement came after Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the conference that "he United States does not wish, or is not ready, to agree to a decision which would be of practical value to put an end to war propaganda poisoning of the international atmosphere."

The U.S. and Russia have been holding private talks on a propaganda ban, but have failed to agree on mutually acceptable language.

The Russian plan urges specific government action to stop war propaganda, consistent with constitutional procedures.

Dean said such action would be impossible, in view of U.S. traditions of freedom of the press.

Second Nuclear Shot Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today fired the second shot of its planned series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Like the first on Wednesday, it was a detonation of a device dropped from an airplane in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific.

An announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission said the shot was touched off about 11 a.m. EST, and the detonation was in the intermediate-yield range.

This description is used for a shot with a force greater than the explosive force of 20,000 tons of TNT but less than that of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

No other details were given.

New Wave Of Strikes In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — A new wave of strikes broke out in various parts of Algeria today as business leaders deplored the drastic drop in commerce caused by terrorism and insecurity.

The post offices, telephone and telegraph services, banks, gasoline service stations and the University of Algiers were affected.

The strikers joined an estimated 8,000 industrial workers in the Oran area who went on strike of indefinite length Wednesday.

The president of the Algerian Commercial Club, Adrien Cholet, said imports from France dropped 20 per cent during the first three months of 1962, and business has fallen as much as 80 per cent in some sectors.

BUTTER PRICE DROPS TUESDAY

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Commencing Tuesday the retail price of butter will drop by 12 cents a pound and the price of cheese will rise by one-half a cent a pound.

The new prices go into operation May 1 under the revamped dairy price support program announced earlier this year by the federal government.

It is estimated the new program will cost more than $50,000,000 in its first year of operation.

The consumer subsidy — which the taxpayers will pay through the federal treasury — will bring the retail price of butter down from around 70 cents to between 56 and 59 cents a pound depending upon the area. This price compares with a margarine price of between 30 and 35 cents a pound.

Some dealers maintained the price was right "under normal circumstances" but that unfavorable publicity received as a result of the B.C. electric takeover had made investors wary of the issue.

Many dealers were highly critical of the premier's action in attempting to set its own market price for the bonds rather than putting the issue out to tender.

Two Men Survive Helicopter Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters) — Eight bodies were recovered from the wreckage of a United States Army helicopter, found today after being missing since Wednesday.

Another helicopter discovered the wreckage 37 miles southwest of Bethel and about 500 miles west of here. There were two survivors from the craft which was taking U.S. national guard advisers on a routine visit to national guard detachments in the Bethel area.

The helicopter was reported overdue Wednesday but bad weather delayed the search.

The survivors were identified as Sgt. John Fannin of Monroe, Mich., and M. Sgt. James Acetis of Bethel.

They were found Thursday near the crash scene by an Eskimo who took them 14 miles to an abandoned oil drilling site and then drove his four-dog team to a village where the army was notified by radio.

The two men were later flown out by light plane and are now in Bethel hospital.

They also want the working week reduced from 44 to 40.

The employers have offered to negotiate on fringe benefits, but have insisted that they can't afford to give way on the two major demands.

Midwestern States Raked by Tornadoes

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy thunderstorms and several tornadoes raked wide areas of the plains states Thursday.

Winds of tornado force battered Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Tex., Thursday night, damaging several buildings and injuring 11 persons.

Three tornadoes bounced around the Stamford-Anson area north of Abilene, Tex., causing some property damage. 50 students were ushered to safety. Others were sighted later.

A thunderstorm drenched Quail, Tex., with 2½ inches of rain in 30 minutes. The downpour collapsed part of the roof of the high school minutes after the storm was notified by radio.

The two men were later flown out by light plane and are now in Bethel hospital.

They were found Thursday near the crash scene by an Eskimo who took them 14 miles to an abandoned oil drilling site and then drove his four-dog team to a village where the army was notified by radio.

MILL OFFERS REWARD

CAMPBELL RIVER—A $100 reward has been offered by Elk Falls Co. for information leading to the conviction of persons who uprooted signs and destroyed ornamental trees on paper mill property.

The mill was not the only place hit this week. Highway signs between the Campbell River Bridge and Elk Falls Forest Service lookout were upset.
